M'Carthy Endorsed By Gen. Eisenhower

Ike Backs Up Senator's Position On Reds

MILWAUKEE, Oct., 3 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower publicly called today for the reelection of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, and he backed up the senator's position on Communist penetration into the federal government with this grim assertion:

'It meant — in its most ugly triumph — treason itself."

Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, also lashed out at President Truman and at Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for president, for some of the things they have said in connection with the question of Red operations in Washington. He did not mention either the President or Stevenson by name.

"Red Herring" Recalled

But he recalled Truman's "red herring" remark about the investigation of Alger Hiss, former State Department employe.

And he referred to one of Stevenson's speeches when he said:

"An administration servant grandly declared that Communists in our national life are 'not very important' and that we should not waste time chasing 'phantoms'."

The general delivered these references to Truman and Stevenson in a major speech prepared for delivery in Milwaukee—a speech which was a full dress review of the problem of Communists in government.

His endorsement of McCarthy was given in a whistle-stop talk in Green Bay, Wis., earlier in the day. It was Eisenhower's first stop in the senator's home state.

Differences 'Apply To Method'

McCarthy won the GOP nomination last month in a landslide primary election victory.

Eisenhower added, however, that he differs with McCarthy on some points, that "these differences are well known," and that he has discussed them with the senator.

"The differences apply to method," Eisenhower said.

The senator later told correspondents "I'm not unhappy about his statement."

McCarthy said differences of opinion about methods are common, and added, "it was a good statement."

Eisenhower, in his Milwaukee speech declared Communists have penetrated "virtually every section of our government."

Nixon Calls Adlai "Umbrella Man"

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 3 (AP)—Charging that Gov. Adlai Stevenson is attempting to spread a "shadowy political parasol" over important campaign issues, Sen. Richard M. Nixon tonight coined another new label of "umbrella man" for the Democratic presidential candidate.

Nixon listed the issues as foreign policy, communism, corruption and cost-of-living.

"Mr. Stevenson doesn't dare tackle any of these matters openly," the GOP vice presidential candidate said in a talk prepared for delivery in the State Armory.

Nixon previously had called Stevenson "double standard bearer," "side saddle Adlai," and the "chlorophyll candidate."

The vice presidential nominee moved into Delaware after a day of campaigning in Maryland on both sides of the Chesapeake Bay. In five stops he harped on two main topics, communism and a balanced budget.

Britons Speculate "Hell Bomb" Tested

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The explosion of Britain's first atomic weapon was described by British newspapers today as the most powerful blast the world has ever known. Some speculated the weapon was a hydrogen bomb.

Whatever the weapon, the orange-red flash and the rise of a ragged Z-shaped cloud in the Monte Bello Island proving ground off Australia's west coast had placed Britain alongside the United States and Russia as a major atomic power.

No Nobel Peace Prize To Be Awarded In 1952

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Nobel peace prize of $33,000 in cash and tremendous prestige will not be awarded in 1952.

This was announced today by the Nobel Committee of the Norwegian Parliament, which under the will of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish explosives magnate, makes the selection.

It was the 11th time the peace prize had not been awarded since the first winner was named in 1901.

Harvester Plant Non-Striker Slain On Way To Work

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP) — William Foster, 52, veteran non-striking employe of the International Harvester Company, was clubbed to death on his way to work today. The killing raised this burning question—who did it and why?

A few hours after the slaying, John L. McCaffrey, president of Harvester which has some 25,000 employes on strike in three states, offered a $10,000 reward for arrest and conviction of the slayer declaring: "This company will make every effort to safeguard every employe who comes to work."

Gerald Fielde, director of the National Harvester Conference Board of the striking Farm Equipment-United Electrical Workers Union, (Ind.) said he is "confident there is absolutely no connection between the fact that this employe died and the dispute existing between the company and union."

"Ours is an old union and doesn't go in for that sort of activity and doesn't practice or condone violence," Fielde added.

Foster, a negro forge worker in Harvester's McCormick works, was struck down on a street near his home but several miles from the plant.

Protestant Church Ban Lifted By Italy

ROME, Oct. 3 (AP) — Catholic Italy lifted a police ban against the Protestant Church of Christ today after American diplomatic intervention.

It was announced that services will be held in all 22 Italian Churches of Christ next Sunday, including three where police had prevented services by force.

Three Gunmen Invade RCA Building To Rob NBC Office

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Three businesslike gunmen invaded the RCA Building today, seized $4,000 from a National Broadcasting Co. office, and fled through throngs of Radio City tourists.

They dropped a lookout outside NBC's second floor office. Then the other two men held seven persons at bay inside while they rifled a petty cash drawer.

Their invasion of the towering RCA building was the second skyscraper holdup of the day. Earlier, a lone bandit took $3,200 from a construction engineering firm on the 28th floor of a west 44th Street building.

The RCA stickup also was the fifth in a day that saw gunmen ravaging Manhattan to the tune of better than $14,000.

The NBC bandits were described as gentlemanly in their conduct. All wore dark glasses. One was dressed like a banker in a blue business suit. Another was more the tweedy, outdoor type.

Better Social Security Setup Urged By Adlai

Taft Called GOP's 'Uncrowned Boss'

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 3 (AP) — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson called tonight for a social security program covering more workers, for increased benefits as living costs rise, and for protection of Americans against the economic disaster of catastrophic illness.

But the Democratic presidential nominee said "the top priority now is defense and inflation control" and that expansion of human welfare programs must be undertaken against a background of safeguards to assure national solvency.

Points To Improvements

The Illinois governor said his party is leading the way toward the goals he set forth and already has given the nation better housing, better hospital facilities and other social welfare improvements.

And it all has been accomplished, Stevenson added, "in the teeth of implacable and relentless opposition of Republicans in Congress."

Invading the home state of Sen. Robert A. Taft, the governor said in an address prepared for delivery at Memorial Auditorium:

"I am glad to be in Ohio and pay my respects to the uncrowned boss of the Republican party—Sen. Taft. At least you know where he stands."

Two-Way Cut At Ike

That was a two-way cut at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Stevenson's GOP rival for the presidency.

In talking of Taft as the party's uncrowned boss, the Illinois governor in effect was repeating a contention that the Ohio senator has taken over Eisenhower's campaign—after losing out to the general in the race for the presidential nomination.

And in talking of knowing where Taft stands, the Democratic nominee again was sounding a theme he has been hammering—that Eisenhower frequently shifts positions on the issues.

Cuba Revolt Fund Reported Stolen

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 3 (AP)—A black bag containing $240,000 in cash intended to buy munitions for a counter-revolution in Cuba was taken today from two exiled Cubans, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram said.

Manuel F. Madareaga, 38, who described himself as a Cuban politician, and Candido De La Torre, 49, who identified himself as a former Havana city councilman, admitted they were robbed. They also admitted they do not like Cuba's Fulgencio Batista and had been living in exile in Mexico since Batista returned to power.

But they denied the Star-Telegram's version that they intended to use the money to buy guns and ammunition in an attempt to return former Cuban President Carlos Prio Socarras to power. And they claimed only $8,000 was taken, not $240,000.

The two Cubans took lodgings recently in the swank and expensive Western Hills Hotel here, a motel-like place where guests have separate cottages.

At 3:30 a. m. (CST) today, they told police, a six-foot man with a submachine gun and a Texas accent forced his way into their rooms, tied Madareaga up with wire, took the money, and fled.

School Age Population Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) — U. S. school age population increased approximately 1,035,000 in the 15 months up to July 1, 1951, the Census Bureau reported today.

The bureau said its population estimates indicated that on April 1, 1950, there were 30,560,000 children between five and 17 years old in the United States.

Children Treated After Bus Accident

Some of the 15 kindergarten pupils injured when a school bus (background) collided with a heavily-loaded gravel truck in rural Wyandotte County, Kas., yesterday and overturned wait for transportation to the University of Kansas Medical Center at Kansas City. The injured are being comforted by parents and passersby. None was hurt seriously.

Taft Declares Stevenson Stands For Continued Pro-Red Philosophy

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft tonight said election of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, would mean "a continuation of the wavering, unstable, pro-Communist philosophy that has almost brought this country to destruction."

Sen Taft joined two other Republican senators — William F. Knowland of California and John W. Bricker of Ohio—in a bitter denunciation of administration foreign policy, particularly the handling of the Korean War.

The senior senator from Ohio discarded the major part of a prepared foreign policy speech in favor of rebuttal to a speech Gov. Stevenson was giving in Memorial Hall, a few blocks away.

Adlai "Has No Remedy" For War

"Mr. Stevenson has no remedy for the Korean War," said Sen. Taft.

"General Eisenhower said that in his opinion we should arm the South Koreans as rapidly as possible and when they are in a condition to defend themselves we should withdraw American troops. He recognizes that we cannot permanently maintain American troops on the continent of Asia.

"More than that, the great difference between Mr. Stevenson and Gen. Eisenhower is that the Republican candidate promises to clean out the State Department.

"On June 13 he said he would clean out the top personnel of the State Department which was all from the Democratic Party. He said 'we need a new administration and I mean new in all its parts.'

Knowland Leads Off Attack

"Mr. Stevenson has always been a close friend of Secretary Acheson. His election means a continuation of Acheson and a continuation of the wavering, unstable, pro-Communist philosophy that has almost brought this country to destruction."

Sen. William F. Knowland of California led off the combination attack on foreign policy and impromptu "truth squad" criticism of Gov. Stevenson's speech.

He called for an effective collective security in the East and shouted: "I defy the Democratic presidential candidate to say there is effective collective security in the East when we put up 90 per cent of the men."

WSB, Moses To Confer On New Mine Pact

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) today scheduled an informal conference for next Friday morning with Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, to take a close look at the recent one-year coal wage pact.

A brief WSB announcement said the board wanted "all the facts" bearing on a request by Moses that the new coal contract be approved by the board under stabilization rules.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) — Mrs. Anice Baker, a former slave of Gen. Robert E. Lee, died yesterday at her home, only two months before her 102nd birthday.

Four Bulgarian Churchmen Given Death Sentences

LONDON, Oct. 3 (INS) — The Bulgarian news agency reported tonight that a Roman Catholic bishop and three priests were sentenced to execution by firing squad following conviction on charges of espionage for the Vatican.

The agency said 24 other priests received prison sentences at the conclusion of a trial that began in Sofia last Monday.

All pleaded guilty, according to the news agency, and asked for "just punishment and clemency."

Sentenced to death were Bishop Josaphat Shishkov, Father Kamen Jonkov, Father Pavel Djiljov and Father Evgheni Bosilkov.

Bullet Ends Life Of Revolutionist

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—An official said today an assassinated revolutionist followed the Communist line by attacking the Dominican Republic's Trujillo regime.

A single bullet through the chest last night ended a career of political intrigue for 44-year-old Andres Requena.

His pamphlet "De Patria" was a bitter critic of the republic's former president, Rafael L. Trujillo, and his brother, Hector Trujillo, who succeeded him at the head of the little tropic republic.

"It is an axiom with Communists to besmirch the name of President Trujillo with every opportunity they can get," said Dominican Consul General Felix W. Barnardino.

Beyond this vague suggestion of a clue, however, Dr. Barnardino claimed no knowledge of the shadowy Requena slaying. It had all the earmarks of a political assassination.

"I'll be back in five minutes."

He was shot down as he entered the building.

Pastor Jailed, Fined On Numbers Charges

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP) — The Rev. Nesbitt Murray, whose Sunday sermons often include strange prophesies, was sent to jail today for six months and fined $1,000 for possessing numbers slips and other equipment used in the lottery racket.

Police testified in criminal court they found the numbers slips in the grocery store operated by the 56-year-old negro on week days.

Murray said he consulted with other clergymen and they decided there is nothing wrong in sermon tips on what number is likely to hit the jackpot during the coming week.

Murray said he is pretty good at prophesy. He dreamed three weeks in advance that he was going to be arrested, he told the court.

Reinforced U. N. Air Arm Bags 4 MIGs

SEOUL, Saturday, Oct. 3 (AP)—Newly-reinforced U. S. jet fighters swarmed over North Korea Friday, shooting down three Communist MIGs and damaging four more, the Air Force reported.

Dogfights raged near the Manchurian frontier even as U. S. Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, Jr., declared in Tokyo that overall jet production in the U. S. "has caught up with Russian production."

Finletter gave no figures, for security reasons, but he confirmed that a 50 per cent buildup of air power already was well under way in Korea. Some reinforcements have been delivered, and more are on the way.

Can "Handle Any Threat"

The beefed-up Allied air arm, he told newsmen, could step up the air war "on very short notice" and "handle any threat" from Red planes based in Manchuria.

Allied Thunderjet fighter-bombers hit a Communist troop concentration south of Sariwon in Western Korea and set the target area aflame with at least 25 big blazes, fanned by a high wind.

Other fighter-bombers smashed at Red frontline positions along the Western and Central fronts, destroying at least 15 gun positions and 10 troop bunkers, the Fifth Air Force said.

Allies Retake Two Positions

Front line air strikes and heavy artillery fire helped United Nations infantrymen to recapture two of four advance positions on the Western front. In a bitter night counter-attack, one position was regained north of Korangpo near the 38th Parallel. Another Allied group in three hours of stiff fighting drove back atop a second hill south of Panmunjom, the scene of the stalled armistice negotiations.

However, another outpost south of Panmunjom was yielded Friday, the U. S. Eighth Army announced.

Publication Of Stalin's New Work Under Way

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 (AP)—Publication of Prime Minister Stalin's new work on "Economic Problems of Socialism in the USSR" in brochure form has begun. The Moscow press announced today the first edition totals 1½ million copies.

Pravda declared the appearance of the work—first issued yesterday in the magazine Bolshevik — was "the greatest event in the ideological life of the Communist Party and the Soviet people."

Sudden Train Stop Makes Ike Bump Head, Feel Groggy

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 3 (AP) —Gen. Dwight Eisenhower tonight revealed he had "felt groggy all day" as a result of banging his head as his campaign train gave a sudden jolt early today at Chicago.

"I have felt groggy all day," Eisenhower told a group of Milwaukee political leaders. "I was lying down and then the train stopped suddenly. I banged my head against the wall."

His mother-in-law, Mrs. John Doud, suffered a hard bump on her head but did not require care of a physician.

Trainmen said a coupling parted and broke hoses on the airbrakes.

GOP "Old Guard" Has "Captured" Ike, Truman Says

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN, Oct. 3 (AP) — President Truman invaded California in his stop-Eisenhower campaign today, firing away at the general as "the spokesman for the old guard GOP," and forecasting an end to public power development 'if the Repunblicans succeed in grabbing off the White House and the Congress next November."

At stake were California's 32 electoral votes, which Truman captured for himself four years ago and now is fighting, in a war at the whistle stops, to win for Gov. Adlai Stevenson and the Democratic ticket.

Inspects Shasta Dam

After pausing to inspect mighty Shasta Dam — which waters the farms and powers industries in the Golden State's Central Valley — Truman declared at Redding that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has removed any doubt that the Republicans would wreck the public power program if they got the chance.

"The Republican Party platform hints at this intent," Truman said in a prepared speech. "Their candidate for president now has confirmed it and their record in Congress bears him out."

Earlier at Klamath Falls, Ore., the President charged that despite his "five-star glitter," Eisenhower abandoned every one of his liberal principles as soon as the political going got rough.

Liberals "Turned" From GOP

Truman said Eisenhower has surrendered to the "old guard" on every issue, from public power to national defense, and he said the power of the "old guard" is so great that liberal Republicans are being driven out of the party.

"When the general spoke in Boise, Ida., a few short weeks ago," he went on, "he left no doubt that he was now the spokesman for the old guard GOP.

"He made it plain he does not understand, and does not sympathize with, federal action to harness our rivers and provide the water and the power that you need so badly here. He does not think the federal government should do these things."

In the Boise speech, Eisenhower assailed what he termed the "leftist" views of the Truman administration that the government must build the dams, distribute the power and do everything but come in and wash the housewife's dishes.

Lie Wants Less Talk, More Work From U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP) — The U. N.'s top executive wants more effective work and less talk from United Nations delegates to cut down the length and expense of U. N. General Assembly meetings.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie issued a memorandum today addressed to delegates to the Assembly which opens here October 14.

In it he calls for Assembly committees to change debate cloture rules to give committee chairmen more power to curb the talking. He also called on delegates to tighten up their paper work to get faster action on specific resolutions.

Britons Indignant As Paper Shifts News To First Page

MANCHESTER, Eng. Oct. 3 (AP)—Five days ago the 131-year-old Manchester Guardian started something new. It started printing news on its first page, where for 131 years only classified advertising had bloomed. For the British, it was a horrible earthquake.

There is anguish in the north country and hosts of dear old ladies and gentlemen are sure the world will never be the same. Some angry people who don't like to read news on page one have written to the editors threatening to stop reading altogether.

One indignant man said he guessed he would have to subscribe to the Times of London, which still knows what to do with news—put it back on page six where it belongs.

The Guardian editors admitted they undertook the change only after the deepest of soul searching. The shop was flooded with letters, many of them anguished protests.

"Are we to assume," one correspondent asked, "that your readers are so lacking in intelligence that they cannot pick out the salient pieces of news for themselves but must have them presented in bold type on the front page?"

Strangest complaint came from one reader who said that since the change-over the paper doesn't burn as well and is not so good for starting fires.

USSR Accuses Envoy Kennan Of "Slander"

Acheson Rejects Kremlin's Charge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) — Russia today plunged Soviet-American relations into a new crisis by barring United States Ambassador George F. Kennan on the grounds that he "slandered" the Soviets.

The sudden action raised the prospect of retaliation by the United States although Secretary of State Acheson said that there is "no present intention" of expelling Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin. He also said that break in relations is not being considered.

Moscow in an unexpected note demanded the immediate recall of Kennan as being "persona non grata" or personally unacceptable, because he compared life for Americans in Moscow with the internment he underwent in Nazi Germany after Pearl Harbor.

Acheson Defends Kennan

Russia's action left the United States with no choice but to comply as Kennan was in Geneva. Acheson, vigorously defending Kennan, said there was no way the Kremlin could be compelled to let him return to Moscow. Kennan was ordered to come home for consultation.

The new Moscow move served as a curtain raiser to Russia's widely ballyhooed Communist Party Congress opening Sunday and some diplomats believed it was timed with this meeting in view.

Rejecting the Soviet slander charge, Acheson said Kennan's comparison of life under the Nazis — made in an interview at Berlin Sept. 19 — will be recognized in most parts of the world at a truthful one.

Protest Note Expected

"The Russian peoples themselves must be shamefully aware that foreigners within the Soviet Union are customarily treated by the Soviet government in ways which are the exact contrary of civilized international usage," Acheson said in a statement.

He forecast that the immediate United States response will be a note of protest to the Kremlin, and left open whether Kennan's post will be kept unfilled indefinitely. He told a questioner that no consideration has been given to any replacement.

At the same time the United States in the past has rejected any idea of shutting down the Moscow Embassy because it serves as something of a window into the Communist world.

Makins Appointed As British Envoy To United States

LONDON, Oct. 4 (Saturday)—(INS) — Britain announced today Sir Roger Makins, 48-year-old deputy foreign under secretary of state, has been appointed ambassador to Washington to succeed Sir Oliver Franks.

Queen Elizabeth II has formally approved the appointment and Sir Roger is expected to leave for the United States late in December.

Sir Roger, as a youthful lawyer, entered Foreign Office service in 1928 and since then has held key posts in international affairs, both at home and abroad. He was British minister to Washington from 1945 to 1947.

Foxx's Brother Sentenced To Jail

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP) — Samuel Dell Foxx, 36, today was sentenced to two years in prison on charges he beat a Baltimore hotel out of $86 by posing as his older brother, the former big league baseball star Jimmy Foxx.

Prosecutors advised Circuit Judge Herman M. Moser it wasn't the first time something of the sort had happened. Before, they reported, Foxx's relatives patched up the complaints. This time, they declined.

Foxx's excuse was that he had been drinking. A court psychiatrist described him as an alcoholic psychopath. His home is at Sudlersville, on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Five Girls Convicted

ELYRIA, O., Oct. 3 (AP) — Five Lorain schoolgirls were convicted of delinquency today as authorities continued a probe into reports of wild sex and drinking activities among Lorain High School students.

But they denied the Star-Telegram's version that they intended to use the money to buy guns and ammunition in an attempt to return former Cuban President Carlos Prio Socarras to power. And they claimed only $8,000 was taken, not $240,000.

The two Cubans took lodgings recently in the swank and expensive Western Hills Hotel here, a motel-like place where guests have separate cottages.

At 3:30 a. m. (CST) today, they told police, a six-foot man with a submachine gun and a Texas accent forced his way into their rooms, tied Madareaga up with wire, took the money, and fled.

School Age Population Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) — U. S. school age population increased approximately 1,035,000 in the 15 months up to July 1, 1951, the Census Bureau reported today.

The bureau said its population estimates indicated that on April 1, 1950, there were 30,560,000 children between five and 17 years old in the United States.

Three Gunmen Invade RCA Building To Rob NBC Office

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Three businesslike gunmen invaded the RCA Building today, seized $4,000 from a National Broadcasting Co. office, and fled through throngs of Radio City tourists.

They dropped a lookout outside NBC's second floor office. Then the other two men held seven persons at bay inside while they rifled a petty cash drawer.

Their invasion of the towering RCA building was the second skyscraper holdup of the day. Earlier, a lone bandit took $3,200 from a construction engineering firm on the 28th floor of a west 44th Street building.

The RCA stickup also was the fifth in a day that saw gunmen ravaging Manhattan to the tune of better than $14,000.

The NBC bandits were described as gentlemanly in their conduct. All wore dark glasses. One was dressed like a banker in a blue business suit. Another was more the tweedy, outdoor type.

Children Treated After Bus Accident

Some of the 15 kindergarten pupils injured when a school bus (background) collided with a heavily-loaded gravel truck in rural Wyandotte County, Kas., yesterday and overturned wait for transportation to the University of Kansas Medical Center at Kansas City. The injured are being comforted by parents and passersby. None was hurt seriously.

Taft Declares Stevenson Stands For Continued Pro-Red Philosophy

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft tonight said election of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, would mean "a continuation of the wavering, unstable, pro-Communist philosophy that has almost brought this country to destruction."

Sen Taft joined two other Republican senators — William F. Knowland of California and John W. Bricker of Ohio—in a bitter denunciation of administration foreign policy, particularly the handling of the Korean War.

The senior senator from Ohio discarded the major part of a prepared foreign policy speech in favor of rebuttal to a speech Gov. Stevenson was giving in Memorial Hall, a few blocks away.

Adlai "Has No Remedy" For War

"Mr. Stevenson has no remedy for the Korean War," said Sen. Taft.

"General Eisenhower said that in his opinion we should arm the South Koreans as rapidly as possible and when they are in a condition to defend themselves we should withdraw American troops. He recognizes that we cannot permanently maintain American troops on the continent of Asia.

"More than that, the great difference between Mr. Stevenson and Gen. Eisenhower is that the Republican candidate promises to clean out the State Department.

"On June 13 he said he would clean out the top personnel of the State Department which was all from the Democratic Party. He said 'we need a new administration and I mean new in all its parts.'

Knowland Leads Off Attack

"Mr. Stevenson has always been a close friend of Secretary Acheson. His election means a continuation of Acheson and a continuation of the wavering, unstable, pro-Communist philosophy that has almost brought this country to destruction."

Sen. William F. Knowland of California led off the combination attack on foreign policy and impromptu "truth squad" criticism of Gov. Stevenson's speech.

He called for an effective collective security in the East and shouted: "I defy the Democratic presidential candidate to say there is effective collective security in the East when we put up 90 per cent of the men."

WSB, Moses To Confer On New Mine Pact

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) today scheduled an informal conference for next Friday morning with Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, to take a close look at the recent one-year coal wage pact.

A brief WSB announcement said the board wanted "all the facts" bearing on a request by Moses that the new coal contract be approved by the board under stabilization rules.

Today's Chuckle

"Here is something to solve your church's financial problem."

"What is it?" asked the preacher.

"A contribution box. Coins fall through slots of different sizes. Dollars, half-dollars and quarters fall on velvet. Nickels and pennies drop on a bell."

Ex-Slave Of Gen. Lee Dies

Four Bulgarian Churchmen Given Death Sentences

LONDON, Oct. 3 (INS) — The Bulgarian news agency reported tonight that a Roman Catholic bishop and three priests were sentenced to execution by firing squad following conviction on charges of espionage for the Vatican.

The agency said 24 other priests received prison sentences at the conclusion of a trial that began in Sofia last Monday.

All pleaded guilty, according to the news agency, and asked for "just punishment and clemency."

Sentenced to death were Bishop Josaphat Shishkov, Father Kamen Jonkov, Father Pavel Djiljov and Father Evgheni Bosilkov.

Bullet Ends Life Of Revolutionist

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—An official said today an assassinated revolutionist followed the Communist line by attacking the Dominican Republic's Trujillo regime.

A single bullet through the chest last night ended a career of political intrigue for 44-year-old Andres Requena.

His pamphlet "De Patria" was a bitter critic of the republic's former president, Rafael L. Trujillo, and his brother, Hector Trujillo, who succeeded him at the head of the little tropic republic.

"It is an axiom with Communists to besmirch the name of President Trujillo with every opportunity they can get," said Dominican Consul General Felix W. Barnardino.

Beyond this vague suggestion of a clue, however, Dr. Barnardino claimed no knowledge of the shadowy Requena slaying. It had all the earmarks of a political assassination.

"I'll be back in five minutes."

He was shot down as he entered the building.

Pastor Jailed, Fined On Numbers Charges

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP) — The Rev. Nesbitt Murray, whose Sunday sermons often include strange prophesies, was sent to jail today for six months and fined $1,000 for possessing numbers slips and other equipment used in the lottery racket.

Police testified in criminal court they found the numbers slips in the grocery store operated by the 56-year-old negro on week days.

Murray said he consulted with other clergymen and they decided there is nothing wrong in sermon tips on what number is likely to hit the jackpot during the coming week.

Murray said he is pretty good at prophesy. He dreamed three weeks in advance that he was going to be arrested, he told the court.

Reinforced U. N. Air Arm Bags 4 MIGs

SEOUL, Saturday, Oct. 3 (AP)—Newly-reinforced U. S. jet fighters swarmed over North Korea Friday, shooting down three Communist MIGs and damaging four more, the Air Force reported.

Dogfights raged near the Manchurian frontier even as U. S. Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, Jr., declared in Tokyo that overall jet production in the U. S. "has caught up with Russian production."

Finletter gave no figures, for security reasons, but he confirmed that a 50 per cent buildup of air power already was well under way in Korea. Some reinforcements have been delivered, and more are on the way.

Can "Handle Any Threat"

The beefed-up Allied air arm, he told newsmen, could step up the air war "on very short notice" and "handle any threat" from Red planes based in Manchuria.

Allied Thunderjet fighter-bombers hit a Communist troop concentration south of Sariwon in Western Korea and set the target area aflame with at least 25 big blazes, fanned by a high wind.

Other fighter-bombers smashed at Red frontline positions along the Western and Central fronts, destroying at least 15 gun positions and 10 troop bunkers, the Fifth Air Force said.

Allies Retake Two Positions

Front line air strikes and heavy artillery fire helped United Nations infantrymen to recapture two of four advance positions on the Western front. In a bitter night counter-attack, one position was regained north of Korangpo near the 38th Parallel. Another Allied group in three hours of stiff fighting drove back atop a second hill south of Panmunjom, the scene of the stalled armistice negotiations.

However, another outpost south of Panmunjom was yielded Friday, the U. S. Eighth Army announced.

Publication Of Stalin's New Work Under Way

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 (AP)—Publication of Prime Minister Stalin's new work on "Economic Problems of Socialism in the USSR" in brochure form has begun. The Moscow press announced today the first edition totals 1½ million copies.

Pravda declared the appearance of the work—first issued yesterday in the magazine Bolshevik — was "the greatest event in the ideological life of the Communist Party and the Soviet people."

Sudden Train Stop Makes Ike Bump Head, Feel Groggy

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 3 (AP) —Gen. Dwight Eisenhower tonight revealed he had "felt groggy all day" as a result of banging his head as his campaign train gave a sudden jolt early today at Chicago.

"I have felt groggy all day," Eisenhower told a group of Milwaukee political leaders. "I was lying down and then the train stopped suddenly. I banged my head against the wall."

His mother-in-law, Mrs. John Doud, suffered a hard bump on her head but did not require care of a physician.

Trainmen said a coupling parted and broke hoses on the airbrakes.

GOP "Old Guard" Has "Captured" Ike, Truman Says

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN, Oct. 3 (AP) — President Truman invaded California in his stop-Eisenhower campaign today, firing away at the general as "the spokesman for the old guard GOP," and forecasting an end to public power development "if the Repunblicans succeed in grabbing off the White House and the Congress next November."

At stake were California's 32 electoral votes, which Truman captured for himself four years ago and now is fighting, in a war at the whistle stops, to win for Gov. Adlai Stevenson and the Democratic ticket.

Inspects Shasta Dam

After pausing to inspect mighty Shasta Dam — which waters the farms and powers industries in the Golden State's Central Valley — Truman declared at Redding that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has removed any doubt that the Republicans would wreck the public power program if they got the chance.

"The Republican Party platform hints at this intent," Truman said in a prepared speech. "Their candidate for president now has confirmed it and their record in Congress bears him out."

Earlier at Klamath Falls, Ore., the President charged that despite his "five-star glitter," Eisenhower abandoned every one of his liberal principles as soon as the political going got rough.

Liberals "Turned" From GOP

Truman said Eisenhower has surrendered to the "old guard" on every issue, from public power to national defense, and he said the power of the "old guard" is so great that liberal Republicans are being driven out of the party.

"When the general spoke in Boise, Ida., a few short weeks ago," he went on, "he left no doubt that he was now the spokesman for the old guard GOP.

"He made it plain he does not understand, and does not sympathize with, federal action to harness our rivers and provide the water and the power that you need so badly here. He does not think the federal government should do these things."

In the Boise speech, Eisenhower assailed what he termed the "leftist" views of the Truman administration that the government must build the dams, distribute the power and do everything but come in and wash the housewife's dishes.

Lie Wants Less Talk, More Work From U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP) — The U. N.'s top executive wants more effective work and less talk from United Nations delegates to cut down the length and expense of U. N. General Assembly meetings.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie issued a memorandum today addressed to delegates to the Assembly which opens here October 14.

In it he calls for Assembly committees to change debate cloture rules to give committee chairmen more power to curb the talking. He also called on delegates to tighten up their paper work to get faster action on specific resolutions.

Britons Indignant As Paper Shifts News To First Page

MANCHESTER, Eng. Oct. 3 (AP)—Five days ago the 131-year-old Manchester Guardian started something new. It started printing news on its first page, where for 131 years only classified advertising had bloomed. For the British, it was a horrible earthquake.

There is anguish in the north country and hosts of dear old ladies and gentlemen are sure the world will never be the same. Some angry people who don't like to read news on page one have written to the editors threatening to stop reading altogether.

One indignant man said he guessed he would have to subscribe to the Times of London, which still knows what to do with news—put it back on page six where it belongs.

The Guardian editors admitted they undertook the change only after the deepest of soul searching. The shop was flooded with letters, many of them anguished protests.

"Are we to assume," one correspondent asked, "that your readers are so lacking in intelligence that they cannot pick out the salient pieces of news for themselves but must have them presented in bold type on the front page?"

Strangest complaint came from one reader who said that since the change-over the paper doesn't burn as well and is not so good for starting fires.

USSR Accuses Envoy Kennan Of "Slander"

Acheson Rejects Kremlin's Charge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) — Russia today plunged Soviet-American relations into a new crisis by barring United States Ambassador George F. Kennan on the grounds that he "slandered" the Soviets.

The sudden action raised the prospect of retaliation by the United States although Secretary of State Acheson said that there is "no present intention" of expelling Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin. He also said that break in relations is not being considered.

Moscow in an unexpected note demanded the immediate recall of Kennan as being "persona non grata" or personally unacceptable, because he compared life for Americans in Moscow with the internment he underwent in Nazi Germany after Pearl Harbor.

Acheson Defends Kennan

Russia's action left the United States with no choice but to comply as Kennan was in Geneva. Acheson, vigorously defending Kennan, said there was no way the Kremlin could be compelled to let him return to Moscow. Kennan was ordered to come home for consultation.

The new Moscow move served as a curtain raiser to Russia's widely ballyhooed Communist Party Congress opening Sunday and some diplomats believed it was timed with this meeting in view.

Rejecting the Soviet slander charge, Acheson said Kennan's comparison of life under the Nazis — made in an interview at Berlin Sept. 19 — will be recognized in most parts of the world at a truthful one.

Protest Note Expected

"The Russian peoples themselves must be shamefully aware that foreigners within the Soviet Union are customarily treated by the Soviet government in ways which are the exact contrary of civilized international usage," Acheson said in a statement.

He forecast that the immediate United States response will be a note of protest to the Kremlin, and left open whether Kennan's post will be kept unfilled indefinitely. He told a questioner that no consideration has been given to any replacement.

At the same time the United States in the past has rejected any idea of shutting down the Moscow Embassy because it serves as something of a window into the Communist world.

Makins Appointed As British Envoy To United States

LONDON, Oct. 4 (Saturday)—(INS) — Britain announced today Sir Roger Makins, 48-year-old deputy foreign under secretary of state, has been appointed ambassador to Washington to succeed Sir Oliver Franks.

Queen Elizabeth II has formally approved the appointment and Sir Roger is expected to leave for the United States late in December.

Sir Roger, as a youthful lawyer, entered Foreign Office service in 1928 and since then has held key posts in international affairs, both at home and abroad. He was British minister to Washington from 1945 to 1947.

Foxx's Brother Sentenced To Jail

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP) — Samuel Dell Foxx, 36, today was sentenced to two years in prison on charges he beat a Baltimore hotel out of $86 by posing as his older brother, the former big league baseball star Jimmy Foxx.

Prosecutors advised Circuit Judge Herman M. Moser it wasn't the first time something of the sort had happened. Before, they reported, Foxx's relatives patched up the complaints. This time, they declined.

Foxx's excuse was that he had been drinking. A court psychiatrist described him as an alcoholic psychopath. His home is at Sudlersville, on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Five Girls Convicted

ELYRIA, O., Oct. 3 (AP) — Five Lorain schoolgirls were convicted of delinquency today as authorities continued a probe into reports of wild sex and drinking activities among Lorain High School students.

Late But Mild Selling Tips Stock Market To Downside

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Mild selling late in the season, particularly in a few key railroads, tipped a fairly steady stock market slightly to the downside today.

For the third straight day, the market suffered as the World Series weaned attention of brokers away.

Railroads were mixed on the downside while most other major divisions had a fairly even balance between gains and losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents at $106.10 with the industrials unchanged, railroads off 20 cents, and utilities unchanged.

Volume amounted to 980,000 shares as compared with 1,040,000 shares traded yesterday.

Socony-Vacuum was the day's most active issue with 22,500 shares traded. It closed off ⅛ at 33⅛.

It was followed in the list by R-K-O Pictures 13,600 shares up ⅛ at 4½, American Telephone 11,300 shares up ⅛ at 153¼, National Distillers 10,900 shares up ⅛ at 21½, and Southern Co. 10,800 shares unchanged at 15¼.

Lower stocks included Atlantic Coast Line Railroad off ½ at 104⅞, Union Pacific 1 at 108, Sinclair Oil ⅝ at 40⅝, Amerada Petroleum 3 at 197½, Texas Pacific Land Trust 2 at 145, St. Regis Paper ¼ at 20⅝, American Smelting ¼ at 42¼, American Cyanamid 1 at 55¾, du Pont ½ at 85⅝, Chrysler ½ at 83¼, Goodrich ⅝ at 63⅜, and Radio Corp. ⅜ at 27¼.

Luke Man Suffers Two Broken Legs In Auto Accident

LUKE — Kenneth Randalls had both legs broken Monday morning in an automobile accident on Route 125 several miles above Bloomington.

His left leg was broken between the knee and ankle and his right leg was fractured at the ankle.

The accident occurred as he and his brother, William, were returning from their camp on Deep Creek Lake. When the axle and brake cable broke, the gears became disconnected and they had no way to stop the car, which finally came to a stop against a tree.

William escaped injury, Kenneth was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital.

Tri-Towns Briefs And Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis, Luke, have returned after a visit to New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Whitworth, Piedmont, returned recently from a 16 day motor trip through the mid-Western states.

Members of the Evangelical United Brethren church, Westernport, will make apple butter the week of October 12. Orders may be given to any member of the church.

Mother, Son To Join Husband In England

Mrs. Glen C. Iser, RD 4, Oldtown Road, and her five-year-old son, Glenn C. Iser Jr., left yesterday for New York where they will board an Army transport for London to join their husband and father, S/Sgt. Glen C. Iser of the Army Air Force.

Sgt. Iser went overseas in June and has been in the Army since recalled in January, 1951. During World War II he served four years in the South Pacific. He is a native of Bayard, and is a former Celanese worker. Mrs. Iser is the former Dorothy Valentine and the family will reside at Rumford or Essex.

Late But Mild Selling Tips Stock Market To Downside

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Mild selling late in the season, particularly in a few key railroads, tipped a fairly steady stock market slightly to the downside today.

For the third straight day, the market suffered as the World Series weaned attention of brokers away.

Railroads were mixed on the downside while most other major divisions had a fairly even balance between gains and losses.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks lost 10 cents at $106.10 with the industrials unchanged, railroads off 20 cents, and utilities unchanged.

Volume amounted to 980,000 shares as compared with 1,040,000 shares traded yesterday.

Socony-Vacuum was the day's most active issue with 22,500 shares traded. It closed off ⅛ at 33⅛.

It was followed in the list by R-K-O Pictures 13,600 shares up ⅛ at 4½, American Telephone 11,300 shares up ⅛ at 153¼, National Distillers 10,900 shares up ⅛ at 21½, and Southern Co. 10,800 shares unchanged at 15⅛.

Lower stocks included Atlantic Coast Line Railroad off ½ at 104⅞, Union Pacific 1 at 108, Sinclair Oil ⅝ at 40⅝, Amerada Petroleum 3 at 197½, Texas Pacific Land Trust 2 at 145, St. Regis Paper ¼ at 20⅝, American Smelting ¼ at 42¼, American Cyanamid 1 at 55¾, du Pont ½ at 85⅝, Chrysler ½ at 83¼, Goodrich ⅝ at 63⅜, and Radio Corp. ⅜ at 27¼.

Luke Man Suffers Two Broken Legs In Auto Accident

LUKE — Kenneth Randalls had both legs broken Monday morning in an automobile accident on Route 125 several miles above Bloomington.

His left leg was broken between the knee and ankle and his right leg was fractured at the ankle.

The accident occurred as he and his brother, William, were returning from their camp on Deep Creek Lake. When the axle and brake cable broke, the gears became disconnected and they had no way to stop the car, which finally came to a stop against a tree.

William escaped injury, Kenneth was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital.

Tri-Towns Briefs And Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis, Luke, have returned after a visit to New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Whitworth, Piedmont, returned recently from a 16 day motor trip through the mid-Western states.

Members of the Evangelical United Brethren church, Westernport, will make apple butter the week of October 12. Orders may be given to any member of the church.

Mother, Son To Join Husband In England

Mrs. Glen C. Iser, RD 4, Oldtown Road, and her five-year-old son, Glenn C. Iser Jr., left yesterday for New York where they will board an Army transport for London to join their husband and father, S/Sgt. Glen C. Iser of the Army Air Force.

Sgt. Iser went overseas in June and has been in the Army since recalled in January, 1951. During World War II he served four years in the South Pacific. He is a native of Bayard, and is a former Celanese worker. Mrs. Iser is the former Dorothy Valentine and the family will reside at Rumford or Essex.

Balenciaga Continues Fitted Front, Loose Back & Long Line Middy Look

More Popular Acceptance Predicted For Characteristic Silhouettes, New Three Seasons Old — Wide Suede Belts Around Low Hipline, Laces Magnificently Worked In Suits And Dresses.

By BETTY GREEN

New York Fashion Coordinator for Rosenbaum's, now in Paris

PARIS, France—All the fashion world here is divided into two parts:—those who adore and those who deplore BALENCIAGA. Both factions agree on one point:—that the Balenciaga influence of fashion trends both here and in America is tremendous. As for me, I'm a sort of straddler; I appreciate the aloof genius of Balenciaga without always liking what it produces.

HE DOES IT AGAIN!

What would Balenciaga do this season? All through the earlier showings there has been much speculation—and much hope, too, that he would come forth with a much needed, new promotable trend. Well, Balenciaga showed yesterday, and—guess what—he has not changed his mind or his shilhouette. His favorite theme for coats and suits is still the fitted front, loose backs—and his favorite theme for dresses is still the low hipline, loose waistline middy—only more so. This time he adds wide suede belts around the hipline just to show that he means it.

STAND AWAY NECKLINES AGAIN

The fitted front, loose back suits, cut so exquisitely they are in every fabric from tweed to satin and even wool lace—the last a most effective medium for the theatre suit. Many have the controversial stand-away necklines that were so criticized by the American designers—and so copied. Many have low cut front neckline and are worn with large scarfs tied ascot fashion. New details such as self fringe all around the jacket hem and new pocket and flap positions distinguish the new versions from last season's. Shoulders are slightly droped, sleeves are trouser leg straight and usually not quite to the wrist.

DOUBLE WAISTLINE DRESSES

The loose middy, without waistline definition, is given many interpretations in both suits and dresses, often with all around pleated skirts. Backs are bloused, hiplines are snug. Bolero backs on slim dresses reflect the fitted front-loose back theme. A new dress silhouette gives us two waistlines—one at the normal point and the other around the hips with a slight puff between to curve out the hiplines. In the laces, for which Balenciaga is justly famous, the prettiest dresses are slender to the hipline and then shirred into skirt fulness. These dresses, like so many others in the collection, are casually tied around the waistline with narrow satin ribbon sashes. Evening sheaths, brilliantly jeweled, are girdled around the hips with tulle sashes. Narrow sheaths often break into low flamenco flounces.

MANY TWEEDS

Flannels and mannish tweeds appear repeatedly in tailored and sports suits and coats. Although they are extremely simple in styling, you could never call them "casual". Everything Balenciaga does has elegance and taut precision. Wool jersey is a favorite for daytime dresses, as it is everywhere. For after-five there is much moire in black and white, much taffeta and the raw silk which the French call "Soie Sauvage" and which has just the right amount of body and crispness for Balenciaga's clean-cut lines.

CAPE COLLARS

Balenciaga likes cape collars on both day and evening costumes, many of them removable. While most of his coats are slim and tapered, he continues some with pyramid fulness. He does cardigan necklines throughout the collections; also some of the loose turtle necklines he started last year. Some of his stoles are enormous lengths of bulky brushed wool. Lace shawls are a gracious evening accessory, confirming my impression that shawls are slated for a big vogue. There is much black, many black and white tweeds and much gray—the last especially lovely in laces.

Ever since the Balenciaga opening my phone has been going like mad. It's our American manufacturers wanting to know if I liked it. Last year I would have said, "Definitely not". This year my eye is more accustomed to the Balenciaga look—just as YOUR eyes will be—and it seems to me that it is the logical answer to "What's next in fashion".

Taxes On Copyrights

The Democrats may try to make political capital of the fact that General Eisenhower paid a long-term capital gains tax of 25 per cent on the proceeds of his book, "Crusade in Europe," instead of the higher rates imposable if the proceeds had been treated as regular income. But the Republicans can reply that the capital-gains classification was allowed by Democratic tax officials in a Democratic administration.

The general published in 1948 this, his first and possibly his last book, after he had reached the age of 55. He sold the book—that is, the copyright—outright for a lump sum, not on the royalty basis customary for professional writers, six months after taking out the copyright.

Nevertheless, Congress in drawing up the 1950 Revenue Act was mindful of the tax concession granted Eisenhower. Section 210 of that Act amended Section 117 of the Internal Revenue Code. In the words of the House Ways and Means Committee report, the amendment provided that "a person who devises an invention or who writes a book or creates some other sort of artistic work will be taxed at ordinary rates, rather than at capital gain rates, upon gain from the sale of the work regardless of whether it is his first production in the field or not.

However, such a person could establish that the writing required 36 months or more to produce. Then, if 80 per cent or more of the income from the writing were lumped into one year, Section 107 (b) of the code would allow the averaging of the income from the work over a period of 36 months.

Another section of the new law excluded from the definition of capital assets for tax purposes "a copyright, a literary, musical or artistic composition, or similar property held by (i) a taxpayer whose personal efforts created such property . . ." This section was made effective in the first taxable year after enactment of the bill.

The name of Eisenhower figured little in the congressional debate on the bill. However, in the Senate Humphrey (D., Minn.) noted (August 29, 1950) that the capital-gains treatment had been the subject of much controversy and much discussion. "I recall the time when General Eisenhower was writing a book," Humphrey went on, "and the question was whether the income from his book should be taxed as earned income. The senator from Illinois (Douglas) has written a book or two, and I venture to say that he was taxed on the income from the sale of the books. The issue with reference to General Eisenhower's book was before the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and the question was: Can this be considered to be a capital gain, or is it merely earned income?

"I think it was the ruling of the Bureau of Internal Revenue that it could be considered capital gain, because it was based on the idea that there had been years of service that had gone into the preparation of the material."

Life's Darkest Moment

At the age of seven H. T. (for Harold Tucker) Webster discovered, according to his biographers, that he had two addictions. One was drawing, and the other was smoking. He developed the former and suffered the latter for the remaining 60 years of his life, which ended several days ago.

Webster brought a character named Caspar Milquetoast into the world more than 25 years ago. Since that time "The Timid Soul" has become perhaps as much a part of the American scene as baseball. Caspar was a symbol of suffering humanity — the downtrodden male. In Caspar people saw the absurdity of many of their own fears and worries.

Perhaps the memory of this cartoonist could rest on such laurels as his characterization of the timid soul. But there were millions (who didn't give a fig for Caspar) who would open their newspaper first to see what tragedy of childhood Webster would recount in a panel titled "Life's Darkest Moment."

Others waited avidly for his barbs at bridge, while "How to Torture Your Wife" (or husband) chided both sexes with magnificent impartiality. He was less a chider and more of a critic in the harpoons he threw at radio and television commercials.

Readers saw immediately in the situations he presented their own frustrations, dislikes and boredom.

But Webster was primarily a humorist, and he had few peers. He mirrored the common man and woman in situations which may have been just a bit too much for them, thus identifying himself with millions. These millions, learning of his death, will reflect that the end of the timeless cartoons signed by Webster will indeed be among "life's darkest moments."

Farmers Pay It Back

Farmers hard hit by natural disasters of flood or drought borrowed $81,000,000 in the last three years from the federal government through the Department of Agriculture and the Farmers Home Administration. The theory is that farmers will do almost anything in their power to stay on their land and make it productive again.

But in the past their power to stay and survive on the land was often inadequate. Sheer grit and determination will not save the old home place following a disaster if money for a new start is lacking.

No bank or group of banks in a large flood area could muster the resources and facilities to offer loans to all the farmers who might need money simultaneously. However, it is a fair question to ask if the loans are being repaid. The Department of Agriculture now gives an answer.

Of the $47,000,000 that has come due, 90 per cent has been repaid. Interest collections will, it is held, offset any final loss to the government. If the expense of administering the loans is comparable to a bank's expenses, pro-rated, there can be real satisfaction in the record so far.

It would be interesting to know how the costs do compare. But, anyway, here's a salute to the farmers who, with few exceptions, have shown they feel that federal aid is not necessarily a one-way proposition.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelops is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Hives: Look For Irritants

Hives (urticaria) is associated usually with eating strawberries, shrimp, or eggs. There are many other causes, however, including some that are unreleated to allergy. In this respect the welts are not always bona fide evidence that the victim is an allergic individual.

To determine the exact origin requires time and imagination on the part of the physician. The lesions are easily recognized, hence diagnosis is simple. When they develop rapidly and disappear within a few days to a week an outside irritant is a likely culprit. In children, foods generally are to blame; in adults, the provocative agent may be food or a substance that has been contacted, inhaled, or received as an injection, as in typhoid vaccine. Even a mosquito bite can produce hives in those who are sensitive to the insect.

The man or woman with chronic hives develops a number of these lesions gradually, which tend to come and go over a long period of time and to spread all over the body. They are not serious but annoying. Scratching and itching interfere with sleep and will spoil even the most stable disposition. The culprit in this type also varies. When the usual suspects are not found guilty the allergist considers an internal cause such as focal infection, parasites, glandular disorders, or nervousness.

Many years ago one of the pioneer allergists from St. Louis was consulted by the prospective bridegroom for one of the wealthiest debutantes of the city. Within a half hour after the young man met his gal at the station he encountered a severe generalized reaction as a result of hives. By the next morning he was well but the condition returned with each subsequent date with his fiancee. It was obvious that he was sensitive to his girl and unless cure was possible marriage would be out of the question.

The allergist asked to see the young woman, who had just returned from Europe where, among other things, she had purchased a variety of cosmetics. During the conference, the allergist smelled an unusual scent and questioned the girl. She explained that it was a rare variety she had bought in Paris. He asked her to bring the bottle to him so that he could keep it on his desk until the next appointment with the young man. This was done and toward the end of the consultation the allergist opened the bottle and the perfume escaped into the air. A violent reaction followed which was all that was needed to make the diagnosis. The bride to be was advised to discard the perfume and remove all traces of it from her clothing.

In other instances the cause is not detected so easily. Foods such as eggs, wheat, milk, peas, beans, nuts, fish, onion, white potato, chocolate, berries, and cantaloupe must be investigated. The victim is questioned also about remedies such as aspirin, quinine, aminopyrine, antipyrine, morphine, and codeine which might be originating the disturbance. Inhalants such as perfume and insecticides are associated with hives and they must be taken into account to make the search complete. The aldehydes which form when smoking should not be forgotten.

HOT FOODS AND HEARTBURN

Mrs. F. writes: Whenever I eat highly spiced foods I develop heartburn. Is there anything I can do besides giving up these favorite dishes of mine?

REPLY

If X-rays have shown that your distress is not caused by ulcer or gall bladder trouble, you might take an antacid to neutralize this condition. This offers temporary relief but in some respects is not advisable because heartburn is a signal that spicy foods irritate your stomach. Giving up these dishes is a small price to pay compared with the possible harm that might result from continued irritation.

GLAUCOMA

C. V. writes: What is meant by increased eye tension?

REPLY

Fluids normally pass in and out of the eyeball but if there is a blockage more enters than leaves. This results in increased tension of the parts and as a result the optic nerve is damaged, leading to blindness. This condition is referred to as "glaucoma."

YOU'LL HAVE COMPANY

R. E. writes: Is it safe for a person with diverticulosis to take an extended cruise?

REPLY

Yes. He won't be alone because half the people of middle age and beyond also have this condition. It is less likely to prove bothersome if he sticks to bland foods and prevents constipation. Furthermore, should one of these outpocketings become infected, healing generally occurs without operation. Rest in bed and the administration of one of the antibiotics or intestinal sulfonamides are the usual remedies.

IT'S POSSIBLE

Mrs. F. writes: Can a disturbance of the female organs cause colon trouble (cramping and diarrhea)?

REPLY

Joint Chiefs Differ On How To End Korean War; Defense Goals Will Be Reached By 1954; Tom Dewey Stays In Eisenhower's Shadow

WASHINGTON — The Joint Chiefs of Staff have given careful consideration to some plan by which they could end the long-drawn-out Korean stalemate. They fear that if the war drags on for another winter, the American public will become so apathetic that the Defense Department will be in an untenable position.

As a solution, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air chief of staff, has been urging that American ground troops be pulled out of Korea altogether, and the ground war be turned over to American-trained South Koreans. The United Nations, he advises, could provide air support and supply equipment. Vandenberg argues this will leave the Chinese as the only foreigners in Korea and tend to unite the Koreans against the Chinese. Now, on the other hand, there is considerable Korean feeling against Americans.

Vandenberg also believes Korea might be protected through a public ultimatum by the United Nations that if Chinese aggression is renewed against South Korea, the Chinese mainland would be attacked by air and the Chinese coast would be blockaded by the Navy.

However, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs, does not agree with Vandenberg. Neither does Gen. Joe Collins, Army chief of staff, or to a lesser degree Adm. W. F. Fechteler. They argue that ground troops must remain in Korea until prisoners of war are exchanged.

Thousands of Americans in Communist POW camps, they say, must not be deserted.

At present, the only obstacle remaining in the truce talks is the exchange of prisoners and the Chinese seem to have no intention of settling it. However, General Bradley argues that as long as the talks continue, there is hope, and he is adamant that American boys in prison camps must not be left there.

There has been some discussion inside the Defense Department over forcing the Communist hand by blockading the Chinese coast. The Navy is all set to carry out this assignment, but the trouble is with our United Nations allies. They are dead set against it. Great Britain is especially adamant on the ground that a blockade might cause her to lose Hong Kong.

Defense Speed-Up—Henry Fowler, chief of the whole mobilization program, will soon announce that America now has enough new factories and machine tools to permit a big speed-up in mobilization. Fowler will say that because of these new factories we can reach our defense goals by 1954—the year of greatest danger from the Russians.

Hitherto we weren't expecting to be ready until 1955—one year after the period of greatest danger.

But Fowler will say that if the administration and the Congress are willing to give the green light and spend the money, the United States will be prepared to meet any Russian threat.

Dewey And Nixon—Though Governor Dewey is carefully staying in the background so Eisenhower won't be tagged a Dewey man, he keeps in close touch with the general by long distance phone. Dewey was so worried over the Nixon furor that he asked friends across the country to wire their immediate reaction to Nixon's broadcast. (Dewey was among those who recommended Nixon for veep.)

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Roger L. Putnam intends to resign as economic stabilizer after the November Presidential election, regardless of whether Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Gov. Adlai Stevenson is elected to the White House.

Putnam has two main reasons for wanting to get out. One is that he wants to get back to his package machinery business at Springfield, Mass. The other is that he and some associates have set up a television station, and he has agreed to help run it.

When Putnam took over the stabilization post last December, he agreed to remain only six months. He has already overstayed this time by three months, due to administration fears that a new inflationary wave may be developing.

However, these qualms have not been justified. The administration does not think controls are as urgently needed as it did a few weeks ago.

Front Line Fashion

Rep. Oakley Hunter (R), California, says the United States fighting men may not always have the necessary guns and ammunition but they seem destined to become the best-dressed soldiers in the world.

Hunter poked sharp fun at a recent Pentagon order specifying what the men may wear. He said it sets the wearout date for tropical worsted jackets at June 30, 1954, and for long and short overcoats, June 30, 1953.

Hunter added: "Prohibited is the wearing of wool jackets and trousers shade 51, winter service cap other than brown fur felt in shade 62 and necktie shade 5.

"I can almost hear a field commander complaining: 'Things were going just fine until blank battalion came up wearing shade 6 neckties, shade 51 trousers and shade 60 caps. After that, of course, the day was lost.'"

Storm Of Paper

News desks in Washington are being subjected to such a barrage of pre-election political pronouncements that it appears everybody in politics wants in on the act.

The national committees of the two major parties are deluging news media in the capital with "handouts" and background material in volume which eclipses anything ever seen before.

The great bulk of the "canned" statements are promptly consigned to the wastebaskets, but both sides are apparently pinning their hopes on a belief that editorial resistance must have a limit.

Any speech, or even remark, by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower or Governor Stevenson promptly evokes critical comment—pinned on some name in the opposing camp—and rushed to all news desks by the national committees.

Republicans have a slight edge in this barrage, because they can snipe both at Stevenson and President Truman. But the Democrats are conceding nothing and supplement their criticism of Eisenhower with varied defenses of the administration.

Backstopper McGranery

Insiders credit Attorney General James McGranery with robbing the Republicans of some effective campaign ammunition by turning the Justice Department inside out and co-operating fully with House investigators of his agency.

The ex-Philadelphia jurist has been laying to with the ax in a thoroughgoing housecleaning of his own. He also scored effectively by making virtually all the department's record available to the investigating committee under Rep. Frank L. Chelf (D), Kentucky.

As a result, the GOP has hardly a word to say about conditions in the department—now. It can still talk about things as they were before McGranery took over, and the Chelf Committee seems perfectly willing to furnish the evidence.

However, the Democrats say they are not worried. The official campaign line—whether or not President Truman follows it—is to admit that there has been corruption but to stress that the Democratic administration has taken steps to root it out.

Governor Stevenson's strategists are privately very grateful to McGranery.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 — Information has just become available which indicates that President Truman did make a deal with Phil Murray of the CIO Steelworkers Union whereby the President agreed not to use the Taft-Hartley Act if the union would take a certain course of action. This amazing step is probably unprecedented — an agreement by a President of the United States not to invoke a statute even if the public interest necessitated it.

Proof of the existence of the "deal" has been lacking until today when this correspondent obtained from radio station WWCA atr Gary, Indiana, a recording of a broadcast by Mr. Murray on June 22 last to a meeting of steelworkers. What he said has never been printed in the newspapers of the country. The section of Mr. Murray's speech referring to his negotiations with President Truman is as follows:

As early as December 22nd of 1951, in response to a call made upon us by the President of the United States, your international wage policy committee postponed a strike scheduled for January the first, 1952. I remember distinctly just about the day before Christmas, 1951, President Truman communicated with me and, in the national interest, he suggested that our original strike scheduled for January the first be postponed. He at that time said that 'if you willingly and voluntarily agree to a suspension of the strike, I believe you need have no fear of the courts' imposing upon your membership the so-called Taft-Hartley injunction process.'

"So, proceeding in accordance with the request of the President of the United States, your international union postponed the strike on several occasions. . . ."

Mr. Truman had no legal or moral right to enter into a bargain with the steelworkers union or any other group of private citizens. He had no authority to promise immunity from prosecution to any citizens who might later be properly subject to the processes of law.

The Taft- Hart Act is not mandatory—there is no requirement compelling the President to invoke it. Congress made the statute discretionary—that is, the President may or may not use it as he wishes. The assumption of Congress, however, was that the Taft-Hartley Act would be used or not used depending on whether a strike or threat of strike could be settled without recourse to the statute. It never was intended that the President of the United States could say either to management or labor groups that he would refrain from using a law if the strike was postponed. The purpose was just the opposite—to threaten use of the law if it wasn't settled.

In this instance, even though a strike was eventually called, the President, despite a request formally voted last June by both houses of Congress, refused to invoke the law. He had rendered the United States government powerless to act because he had pledged himself in a private deal not to use the law in exchange for a postponement of the strike.

While it was desirable for the President to try to get a strike postponed, he transgressed his authority and deviated from his public obligation to treat all contending interests fairly and equitably when he permitted the head of a union to shape his union negotiations on the basis of an assurance that, no matter what he did after a certain period of time, no use would be made of the federal labor- management law. The President was in duty bound to disclose to the country—to management as well as to labor—what he did.

To enter into a secret deal with the head of a labor union while at the same time directing the course of a labor-management dispute toward the government's stabilization board was an impropriety on the part of the chief executive which is far worse in some respects than Mr. Truman's seizure of the steel plants on the now exploded theory of "inherent power." For, while the Supreme court of the United States overruled Mr. Truman, at least the President had some legal advice from the Department of Justice which it was his privilege to test in court. Making a deal with the head of a labor union, pledging that a certain law would not be used, was plainly a violation of the first principles of ethics in high presidential office. No President of the United States has the legal or moral right to promise not to use a law passed by Congress when the circumstances that might subsequently arise would necessitate such use in the public interest.

For many weeks early this year the country wondered why Mr. Truman didn't invoke the Taft-Hartley Act in the steel controversy. It was generally supposed at the time that he had some political feeling about it and was reluctant to use the law because it might seem to prove that the statute did have have a constructive value. But now it turns out that this is not the reason at all — indeed Mr. Truman had used the Taft-Hartley Act against the United Mine Workers on previous occasions. The real reason, it now develops, for failure to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act last December and thereafter when the steel strike finally did occur, was that Mr. Truman had privately pledged himself to the head of the CIO Steelworkers Union that he wouldn't use the law.

Mr. Truman at present is going up and down the country with his expenses being paid by the Democratic campaign fund, which has received substantial contributions from the CIO's Political Action Committee, and the latter organization has publicly endorsed the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Stevenson. This is why "the mess in Washington" has alarmed the American people—they do not yet know all of it.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Marxism And Religion

As the years pass, it grows increasingly difficult to understand how some clergymen of various religions uphold communism and support Soviet Russia's program of world imperialism. The Red Dean of Canterbury is not an outstanding exception. Every list of sponsors of Communist activities in the United States includes Protestant clergymen and Jewish rabbis, who apparently do not relate the purposes of the Marxists with their own beliefs.

The Marxist attitude toward religion was recenty stated in Soviet Russia by P. F. Kolonitsky, under the auspices of the "Society for the Dissemination of Scientific and Political Knowledge." Kolonitsky is important enough for his lecture to have been circulated as a brochure.

He said (I am quoting from a condensed version):

". . . The Communist ethic is the exact opposite of the religious ethic. They are as incompatible as freedom and slavery, truth and falsehood, light and darkness. Communism is the great banner of the struggle for the liberation of the working class, the working people, from slavery and exploitation; religion constitutes an ideology for justifying and preserving slavery and exploitation . . .

"In contrast to the Communist ethic, the religious ethic is an exploiters' ethic. Its precepts are designed to preserve all forms of oppression and exploitation — slaveholding, feudal or bourgeois.

Each new ruling class of exploiters adapts religion and its ethic to buttress its rule, but the essence remains the same—the preservation of exploitation, justification in God's name of the ruling classes' dominion over the working people, preaching submissiveness and resignation among the working people."

This is what is being taught in every Communist country, in keeping with Karl Marx's materialistic concepts. There is no God; there is only the eternal struggle between class and class, between the exploiter and the exploited. There is no morality; there is only the struggle between man and his environment. This they believe to be true and with this concept they will not compromise. Therefore those clergymen in our own country who support Marxism are supporting the enemies of God.

Kolonitsky says:

"Religion persistently fills believers with the idea that people can accomplish nothing without God's will, that their whole fate is in God's hands. Man is only a creature of God, a worm, a slave of God . . . It is clear that such an ethic is capable only of extinguishing every will to struggle in man, of killing any impulse to action, of poisoning his soul with the venom of disbelief in his own powers . . . Furthermore, religion preaches renunciation of earthy good, considers earthly life transitory and worthless . . .

"Particularly indicative in this respect is the cult of the sufferings of Christ . . . He is always presented as a model for Christians. 'Christ suffered and bade us to suffer'—this is the most important maxim of Christian ethics . . ."

Not a word is said in this article of the doctrine of love, of pity, of charity. Nothing is said of the effects upon man's mind and conscience of the Ten Commandments, of the Beatitudes, of the whole tradition of natural law. It would seem that this is not only a materialistic, atheistic response to Judaic-Christian beliefs, but also it would seem to indicate that this master of philosophy has no knowledge of Christianity except perhaps in its most deadeningly ritualistic form.

I wonder what American clergymen and the Red Dean have to say about this:

"Under our conditions religious superstition' represents not only religious people's extremely backward notions about the surrounding world, but also vestige of bourgeois ideology, particularly the bourgeois ethic. Therefore religious superstition is overcome not only through enlightenment, not only through dissemination of knowledge, but through Communist education as a whole. And Communist education, as is known, is a considerably broader idea than simply classroom education . . ."

It is important to know what the Communists believe and say in their own country. American apologists for them try to give the impression that they are actually not what they seem to be. It is like the State Department trying to tell us that the Chinese Communists were not Communists at all, but agarian reformers; that is, until they began to murder our sons in Korea and our missionaries in China.

Taxes On Copyrights

The Democrats may try to make political capital of the fact that General Eisenhower paid a long-term capital gains tax of 25 per cent on the proceeds of his book, "Crusade in Europe," instead of the higher rates imposable if the proceeds had been treated as regular income. But the Republicans can reply that the capital-gains classification was allowed by Democratic tax officials in a Democratic administration.

The general published in 1948 this, his first and possibly his last book, after he had reached the age of 55. He sold the book—that is, the copyright—outright for a lump sum, not on the royalty basis customary for professional writers, six months after taking out the copyright.

Nevertheless, Congress in drawing up the 1950 Revenue Act was mindful of the tax concession granted Eisenhower. Section 210 of that Act amended Section 117 of the Internal Revenue Code. In the words of the House Ways and Means Committee report, the amendment provided that "a person who devises an invention or who writes a book or creates some other sort of artistic work will be taxed at ordinary rates, rather than at capital gain rates, upon gain from the sale of the work regardless of whether it is his first production in the field or not.

However, such a person could establish that the writing required 36 months or more to produce. Then, if 80 per cent or more of the income from the writing were lumped into one year, Section 107 (b) of the code would allow the averaging of the income from the work over a period of 36 months.

Another section of the new law excluded from the definition of capital assets for tax purposes "a copyright, a literary, musical or artistic composition, or similar property held by (1) a taxpayer whose personal efforts created such property . . ." This section was made effective in the first taxable year after enactment of the bill.

The name of Eisenhower figured little in the congressional debate on the bill. However, in the Senate Humphrey (D., Minn.) noted (August 29, 1950) that the capital-gains treatment had been the subject of much controversy and much discussion. "I recall the time when General Eisenhower was writing a book," Humphrey went on, "and the question was whether the income from his book should be taxed as earned income. The senator from Illinois (Douglas) has written a book or two, and I venture to say that he was taxed on the income from the sale of the books. The issue with reference to General Eisenhower's book was before the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and the question was: Can this be considered to be a capital gain, or is it merely earned income?

"I think it was the ruling of the Bureau of Internal Revenue that it could be considered capital gain, because it was based on the idea that there had been years of service that had gone into the preparation of the material."

Life's Darkest Moment

At the age of seven H. T. (for Harold Tucker) Webster discovered, according to his biographers, that he had two addictions. One was drawing, and the other was smoking. He developed the former and suffered the latter for the remaining 60 years of his life, which ended several days ago.

Webster brought a character named Caspar Milquetoast into the world more than 25 years ago. Since that time "The Timid Soul" has become perhaps as much a part of the American scene as baseball. Caspar was a symbol of suffering humanity — the downtrodden male. In Caspar people saw the absurdity of many of their own fears and worries.

Perhaps the memory of this cartoonist could rest on such laurels as his characterization of the timid soul. But there were millions (who didn't give a fig for Caspar) who would open their newspaper first to see what tragedy of childhood Webster would recount in a panel titled "Life's Darkest Moment."

Readers saw immediately in the situations he presented their own frustrations, dislikes and boredom.

But Webster was primarily a humorist, and he had few peers. He mirrored the common man and woman in situations which may have been just a bit too much for them, thus identifying himself with millions. These millions, learning of his death, will reflect that the end of the timeless cartoons signed by Webster will indeed be among "life's darkest moments."

Farmers Pay It Back

Farmers hard hit by natural disasters of flood or drought borrowed $81,000,000 in the last three years from the federal government through the Department of Agriculture and the Farmers Home Administration. The theory is that farmers will do almost anything in their power to stay on their land and make it productive again.

But in the past their power to stay and survive on the land was often inadequate. Sheer grit and determination will not save the old home place following a disaster if money for a new start is lacking.

No bank or group of banks in a large flood area could muster the resources and facilities to offer loans to all the farmers who might need money simultaneously. However, it is a fair question to ask if the loans are being repaid. The Department of Agriculture now gives an answer.

Of the $47,000,000 that has come due, 90 per cent has been repaid. Interest collections will, it is held, offset any final loss to the government. If the expense of administering the loans is comparable to a bank's expenses, pro-rated, there can be real satisfaction in the record so far.

It would be interesting to know how the costs do compare. But, anyway, here's a salute to the farmers who, with few exceptions, have shown they feel that federal aid is not necessarily a one-way proposition.

To determine the exact origin requires time and imagination on the part of the physician. The lesions are easily recognized, hence diagnosis is simple. When they develop rapidly and disappear within a few days to a week an outside irritant is a likely culprit. In children, foods generally are to blame; in adults, the provocative agent may be food or a substance that has been contacted, inhaled, or received as an injection, as in typhoid vaccine. Even a mosquito bite can produce hives in those who are sensitive to the insect.

The man or woman with chronic hives develops a number of these lesions gradually, which tend to come and go over a long period of time and to spread all over the body. They are not serious but annoying. Scratching and itching interfere with sleep and will spoil even the most stable disposition. The culprit in this type also varies. When the usual suspects are not found guilty the allergist considers an internal cause such as focal infection, parasites, glandular disorders, or nervousness.

Many years ago one of the pioneer allergists from St. Louis was consulted by the prospective bridegroom for one of the wealthiest debutantes of the city. Within a half hour after the young man met his gal at the station he encountered a severe generalized reaction as a result of hives. By the next morning he was well but the condition returned with each subsequent date with his fiancee. It was obvious that he was sensitive to his girl and unless cure was possible marriage would be out of the question.

The allergist asked to see the young woman, who had just returned from Europe where, among other things, she had purchased a variety of cosmetics. During the conference, the allergist smelled an unusual scent and questioned the girl. She explained that it was a rare variety she had bought in Paris. He asked her to bring the bottle to him so that he could keep it on his desk until the next appointment with the young man. This was done and toward the end of the consultation the allergist opened the bottle and the perfume escaped into the air. A violent reaction followed which was all that was needed to make the diagnosis. The bride to be was advised to discard the perfume and remove all traces of it from her clothing.

In other instances the cause is not detected so easily. Foods such as eggs, wheat, milk, peas, beans, nuts, fish, onion, white potato, chocolate, berries, and cantaloupe must be investigated. The victim is questioned also about remedies such as aspirin, quinine, aminopyrine, antipyrine, morphine, and codeine which might be originating the disturbance. Inhalants such as perfume and insecticides are associated with hives and they must be taken into account to make the search complete. The aldehydes which form when smoking should not be forgotten.

HOT FOODS AND HEARTBURN

Mrs. F. writes: Whenever I eat highly spiced foods I develop heartburn. Is there anything I can do besides giving up these favorite dishes of mine?

REPLY

If X-rays have shown that your distress is not caused by ulcer or gall bladder trouble, you might take an antacid to neutralize this condition. This offers temporary relief but in some respects is not advisable because heartburn is a signal that spicy foods irritate your stomach. Giving up these dishes is a small price to pay compared with the possible harm that might result from continued irritation.

GLAUCOMA

C. V. writes: What is meant by increased eye tension?

REPLY

Fluids normally pass in and out of the eyeball but if there is a blockage more enters than leaves. This results in increased tension of the parts and as a result the optic nerve is damaged, leading to blindness. This condition is referred to as "glaucoma."

YOU'LL HAVE COMPANY

R. E. writes: Is it safe for a person with diverticulosis to take an extended cruise?

REPLY

Yes. He won't be alone because half the people of middle age and beyond also have this condition. It is less likely to prove bothersome if he sticks to bland foods and prevents constipation. Furthermore, should one of these outpocketings become infected, healing generally occurs without operation. Rest in bed and the administration of one of the antibiotics or intestinal sulfonamides are the usual remedies.

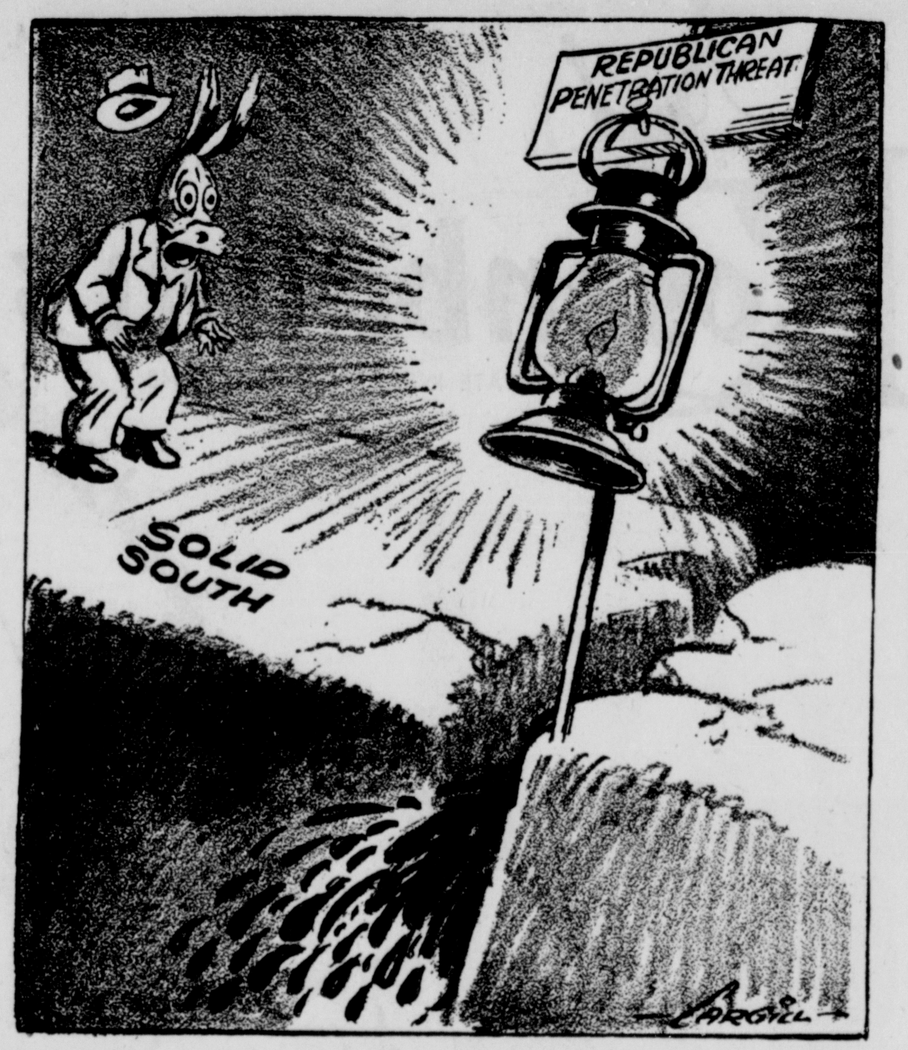

IT'S POSSIBLE

Mrs. F. writes: Can a disturbance of the female organs cause colon trouble (cramping and diarrhea)?

REPLY

Joint Chiefs Differ On How To End Korean War; Defense Goals Will Be Reached By 1954; Tom Dewey Stays In Eisenhower's Shadow

WASHINGTON — The Joint Chiefs of Staff have given careful consideration to some plan by which they could end the long-drawn-out Korean stalemate. They fear that if the war drags on for another winter, the American public will become so apathetic that the Defense Department will be in an untenable position.

As a solution, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air chief of staff, has been urging that American ground troops be pulled out of Korea altogether, and the ground war be turned over to American-trained South Koreans. The United Nations, he advises, could provide air support and supply equipment. Vandenberg argues this will leave the Chinese as the only foreigners in Korea and tend to unite the Koreans against the Chinese. Now, on the other hand, there is considerable Korean feeling against Americans.

Vandenberg also believes Korea might be protected through a public ultimatum by the United Nations that if Chinese aggression is renewed against South Korea, the Chinese mainland would be attacked by air and the Chinese coast would be blockaded by the Navy.

However, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs, does not agree with Vandenberg. Neither does Gen. Joe Collins, Army chief of staff, or to a lesser degree Adm. W. F. Fechteler. They argue that ground troops must remain in Korea until prisoners of war are exchanged.

Thousands of Americans in Communist POW camps, they say, must not be deserted.

At present, the only obstacle remaining in the truce talks is the exchange of prisoners and the Chinese seem to have no intention of settling it. However, General Bradley argues that as long as the talks continue, there is hope, and he is adamant that American boys in prison camps must not be left there.

There has been some discussion inside the Defense Department over forcing the Communist hand by blockading the Chinese coast. The Navy is all set to carry out this assignment, but the trouble is with our United Nations allies. They are dead set against it. Great Britain is especially adamant on the ground that a blockade might cause her to lose Hong Kong.

Capital News Capsules

Defense Speed-Up—Henry Fowler, chief of the whole mobilization program, will soon announce that America now has enough new factories and machine tools to permit a big speed-up in mobilization. Fowler will say that because of these new factories we can reach our defense goals by 1954—the year of greatest danger from the Russians.

Hitherto we weren't expecting to be ready until 1955—one year after the period of greatest danger.

But Fowler will say that if the administration and the Congress are willing to give the green light and spend the money, the United States will be prepared to meet any Russian threat.

Dewey And Nixon—Though Governor Dewey is carefully staying in the background so Eisenhower won't be tagged a Dewey man, he keeps in close touch with the general by long distance phone. Dewey was so worried over the Nixon furor that he asked friends across the country to wire their immediate reaction to Nixon's broadcast. (Dewey was among those who recommended Nixon for veep.)

Washington Pipeline

Pravda's bitter attack on U. S. Ambassador George Kennan is the beginning of a campaign to force him out of Russia. The Kremlin knows that Kennan understands Russia all too well, and wants his brilliant reports to the State Department stopped at any cost. . . . The Navy's television-guided robot planes aren't the only guided missiles being tested in Korea. The Army also is experimenting with a top-secret guided missile under battle conditions, while the Air Force is training two guided-missile squadrons for Korea after the first of the year. . . . The Russians have started building long-range bomber bases along the ice-bound Arctic shore of Northern Siberia. This is just a short hop across the North Pole from Canada, and wit in easy range of Seattle, Detroit and Chicago. The Russians have also started making daily weather flights across the North Pole. . . . The government will pay out more than $20,000,000 in crop insurance to farmers who lost crops during the summer drought.

Washington Pipeline

Bob Morris, counsel for the McCarran Internal Security Committee, has been passing stuff to Senator Nixon on Owen Lattimore and the Institute of Pacific Relations. Nixon is planning a big speech on communism and the Truman administration. . . . Following the first deluge of mail on Nixon, the Republican National Committee is getting a lot of "morning-after" letters. Quite a few letter-writers were carried away by the first impact of the emotional broadcast. But now they want to know exactly where he got the $20,000 down payment for his house. . . . A survey of Nixon sentiment shows that the women are a lot stronger for him than the men. . . . Truman is really sore at Ike. He has the father-toward-son complex of the man who educated his son in the best schools and then found him marrying the daughter of his worst enemy. Originally Truman thought that even if Ike ran as a Republican, foreign policy would not be an issue and the country would be on an even keel. Now he has changed his mind. . . . Charley Taft, brother of the senator, made the mistake at the Delaware, Ohio, fair the other day of telling 40,000 people that this was the first fair he had ever attended. . . . Evie Robert, wife of the former Democratic national committee treasurer, says: "I see that Mrs. Nixon has a Republican cloth coat, not a mink. My husband has never bought me a mink. Do you suppose he's a Republican at heart?"

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Roger L. Putnam intends to resign as economic stabilizer after the November Presidential election, regardless of whether Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Gov. Adlai Stevenson is elected to the White House.

Putnam has two main reasons for wanting to get out. One is that he wants to get back to his package machinery business at Springfield, Mass. The other is that he and some associates have set up a television station, and he has agreed to help run it.

When Putnam took over the stabilization post last December, he agreed to remain only six months. He has already overstayed this time by three months, due to administration fears that a new inflationary wave may be developing.

However, these qualms have not been justified. The administration does not think controls are as urgently needed as it did a few weeks ago.

Front Line Fashion

Rep. Oakley Hunter (R), California, says the United States fighting men may not always have the necessary guns and ammunition but they seem destined to become the best-dressed soldiers in the world.

Hunter poked sharp fun at a recent Pentagon order specifying what the men may wear. He said it sets the wearout date for tropical worsted jackets at June 30, 1954, and for long and short overcoats, June 30, 1953.

Hunter added: "Prohibited is the wearing of wool jackets and trousers shade 51, winter service cap other than brown fur felt in shade 62 and necktie shade 5.

"I can almost hear a field commander complaining: 'Things were going just fine until blank battalion came up wearing shade 6 neckties, shade 51 trousers and shade 60 caps. After that, of course, the day was lost.'"

Storm Of Paper

News desks in Washington are being subjected to such a barrage of pre-election political pronouncements that it appears everybody in politics wants in on the act.

The national committees of the two major parties are deluging news media in the capital with "handouts" and background material in volume which eclipses anything ever seen before.

The great bulk of the "canned" statements are promptly consigned to the wastebaskets, but both sides are apparently pinning their hopes on a belief that editorial resistance must have a limit.

Any speech, or even remark, by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower or Governor Stevenson promptly evokes critical comment—pinned on some name in the opposing camp—and rushed to all news desks by the national committees.

Republicans have a slight edge in this barrage, because they can snipe both at Stevenson and President Truman. But the Democrats are conceding nothing and supplement their criticism of Eisenhower with varied defenses of the administration.

Backstopper McGranery

Insiders credit Attorney General James McGranery with robbing the Republicans of some effective campaign ammunition by turning the Justice Department inside out and co-operating fully with House investigators of his agency.

The ex-Philadelphia jurist has been laying to with the ax in a thoroughgoing housecleaning of his own. He also scored effectively by making virtually all the department's record available to the investigating committee under Rep. Frank L. Chelf (D), Kentucky.

As a result, the GOP has hardly a word to say about conditions in the department—now. It can still talk about things as they were before McGranery took over, and the Chelf Committee seems perfectly willing to furnish the evidence.

However, the Democrats say they are not worried. The official campaign line—whether or not President Truman follows it—is to admit that there has been corruption but to stress that the Democratic administration has taken steps to root it out.

Governor Stevenson's strategists are privately very grateful to McGranery.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 — Information has just become available which indicates that President Truman did make a deal with Phil Murray of the CIO Steelworkers Union whereby the President agreed not to use the Taft-Hartley Act if the union would take a certain course of action. This amazing step is probably unprecedented — an agreement by a President of the United States not to invoke a statute even if the public interest necessitated it.

Proof of the existence of the "deal" has been lacking until today when this correspondent obtained from radio station WWCA atr Gary, Indiana, a recording of a broadcast by Mr. Murray on June 22 last to a meeting of steelworkers. What he said has never been printed in the newspapers of the country. The section of Mr. Murray's speech referring to his negotiations with President Truman is as follows:

As early as December 22nd of 1951, in response to a call made upon us by the President of the United States, your international wage policy committee postponed a strike scheduled for January the first, 1952. I remember distinctly just about the day before Christmas, 1951, President Truman communicated with me and, in the national interest, he suggested that our original strike scheduled for January the first be postponed. He at that time said that 'if you willingly and voluntarily agree to a suspension of the strike, I believe you need have no fear of the courts' imposing upon your membership the so-called Taft-Hartley injunction process.'

"So, proceeding in accordance with the request of the President of the United States, your international union postponed the strike on several occasions. . . ."

Mr. Truman had no legal or moral right to enter into a bargain with the steelworkers union or any other group of private citizens. He had no authority to promise immunity from prosecution to any citizens who might later be properly subject to the processes of law.

The Taft- Hart Act is not mandatory—there is no requirement compelling the President to invoke it. Congress made the statute discretionary—that is, the President may or may not use it as he wishes. The assumption of Congress, however, was that the Taft-Hartley Act would be used or not used depending on whether a strike or threat of strike could be settled without recourse to the statute. It never was intended that the President of the United States could say either to management or labor groups that he would refrain from using a law if the strike was postponed. The purpose was just the opposite—to threaten use of the law if it wasn't settled.

In this instance, even though a strike was eventually called, the President, despite a request formally voted last June by both houses of Congress, refused to invoke the law. He had rendered the United States government powerless to act because he had pledged himself in a private deal not to use the law in exchange for a postponement of the strike.

While it was desirable for the President to try to get a strike postponed, he transgressed his authority and deviated from his public obligation to treat all contending interests fairly and equitably when he permitted the head of a union to shape his union negotiations on the basis of an assurance that, no matter what he did after a certain period of time, no use would be made of the federal labor- management law. The President was in duty bound to disclose to the country—to management as well as to labor—what he did.

To enter into a secret deal with the head of a labor union while at the same time directing the course of a labor-management dispute toward the government's stabilization board was an impropriety on the part of the chief executive which is far worse in some respects than Mr. Truman's seizure of the steel plants on the now exploded theory of "inherent power." For, while the Supreme court of the United States overruled Mr. Truman, at least the President had some legal advice from the Department of Justice which it was his privilege to test in court. Making a deal with the head of a labor union, pledging that a certain law would not be used, was plainly a violation of the first principles of ethics in high presidential office. No President of the United States has the legal or moral right to promise not to use a law passed by Congress when the circumstances that might subsequently arise would necessitate such use in the public interest.

For many weeks early this year the country wondered why Mr. Truman didn't invoke the Taft-Hartley Act in the steel controversy. It was generally supposed at the time that he had some political feeling about it and was reluctant to use the law because it might seem to prove that the statute did have have a constructive value. But now it turns out that this is not the reason at all — indeed Mr. Truman had used the Taft-Hartley Act against the United Mine Workers on previous occasions. The real reason, it now develops, for failure to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act last December and thereafter when the steel strike finally did occur, was that Mr. Truman had privately pledged himself to the head of the CIO Steelworkers Union that he wouldn't use the law.

Mr. Truman at present is going up and down the country with his expenses being paid by the Democratic campaign fund, which has received substantial contributions from the CIO's Political Action Committee, and the latter organization has publicly endorsed the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Stevenson. This is why "the mess in Washington" has alarmed the American people—they do not yet know all of it.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Marxism And Religion

As the years pass, it grows increasingly difficult to understand how some clergymen of various religions uphold communism and support Soviet Russia's program of world imperialism. The Red Dean of Canterbury is not an outstanding exception. Every list of sponsors of Communist activities in the United States includes Protestant clergymen and Jewish rabbis, who apparently do not relate the purposes of the Marxists with their own beliefs.

The Marxist attitude toward religion was recenty stated in Soviet Russia by P. F. Kolonitsky, under the auspices of the "Society for the Dissemination of Scientific and Political Knowledge." Kolonitsky is important enough for his lecture to have been circulated as a brochure.

He said (I am quoting from a condensed version):

". . . The Communist ethic is the exact opposite of the religious ethic. They are as incompatible as freedom and slavery, truth and falsehood, light and darkness. Communism is the great banner of the struggle for the liberation of the working class, the working people, from slavery and exploitation; religion constitutes an ideology for justifying and preserving slavery and exploitation . . .

"In contrast to the Communist ethic, the religious ethic is an exploiters' ethic. Its precepts are designed to preserve all forms of oppression and exploitation — slaveholding, feudal or bourgeois.

Each new ruling class of exploiters adapts religion and its ethic to buttress its rule, but the essence remains the same—the preservation of exploitation, justification in God's name of the ruling classes' dominion over the working people, preaching submissiveness and resignation among the working people."

This is what is being taught in every Communist country, in keeping with Karl Marx's materialistic concepts. There is no God; there is only the eternal struggle between class and class, between the exploiter and the exploited. There is no morality; there is only the struggle between man and his environment. This they believe to be true and with this concept they will not compromise. Therefore those clergymen in our own country who support Marxism are supporting the enemies of God.

Kolonitsky says:

"Religion persistently fills believers with the idea that people can accomplish nothing without God's will, that their whole fate is in God's hands. Man is only a creature of God, a worm, a slave of God . . . It is clear that such an ethic is capable only of extinguishing every will to struggle in man, of killing any impulse to action, of poisoning his soul with the venom of disbelief in his own powers . . . Furthermore, religion preaches renunciation of earthy good, considers earthly life transitory and worthless . . .

"Particularly indicative in this respect is the cult of the sufferings of Christ . . . He is always presented as a model for Christians. 'Christ suffered and bade us to suffer'—this is the most important maxim of Christian ethics . . ."

Not a word is said in this article of the doctrine of love, of pity, of charity. Nothing is said of the effects upon man's mind and conscience of the Ten Commandments, of the Beatitudes, of the whole tradition of natural law. It would seem that this is not only a materialistic, atheistic response to Judaic-Christian beliefs, but also it would seem to indicate that this master of philosophy has no knowledge of Christianity except perhaps in its most deadeningly ritualistic form.

I wonder what American clergymen and the Red Dean have to say about this:

"Under our conditions religious superstition' represents not only religious people's extremely backward notions about the surrounding world, but also vestige of bourgeois ideology, particularly the bourgeois ethic. Therefore religious superstition is overcome not only through enlightenment, not only through dissemination of knowledge, but through Communist education as a whole. And Communist education, as is known, is a considerably broader idea than simply classroom education . . ."

It is important to know what the Communists believe and say in their own country. American apologists for them try to give the impression that they are actually not what they seem to be. It is like the State Department trying to tell us that the Chinese Communists were not Communists at all, but agarian reformers; that is, until they began to murder our sons in Korea and our missionaries in China.

Don your coat with the graceful technique used by models! Here are the easy steps to follow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Good as a Jerry Lewis sketch — flying arms and gyrations — is the performance put on by many a charmer when she dons her coat. Look around you in any restaurant on any day and you can witness this spectacle. Once you become conscious of such violent awkwardness you're sure to start checking your own methods of getting into a coat. That's the moment when the following routine will be something you will want to practice until it becomes habit.

The Models' Way

Models who are taxed with coat-donning before the eyes of fashion-show audiences make this technique their standard practice. You can count on it for graceful, poised results every time.

With your left hand, pick up a coat by the center of its collar band so that the coat clears the floor and the lining faces your body. Insert your right arm into its sleeve, gently adjust the coat's shoulder over your own and slide the neck band as far to the left as is possible.

Letting go of the coat, bring your left hand to rest against your left shoulder. Now, using your right thumb and forefinger, firmly clasp the left side of the coat just below the shoulder seam and pull it outward to the left until fully extended.

With an arm motion similar to that used in the crawl stroke in swimming, raise your left elbow just enough to allow your fingers to slide into the sleeve. As they find their way down, adjust the shoulders.

Quicker Than The Eye

You're in! And with no further adjustments other than closing. A fitted coat should be secured first at the waist, working up to the neck, and lastly from the waist down.

With just a bit of practice, your motions will begin to flow one into the other and the entire operation will take no more than a split second. The effect will be as smooth as that of a magician pulling a rabbit out of a hat. Since no one sees how the trick is done, admiration and applause are left in its wake!

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! County PTA Council Meets Monday Night

The Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will hold its first meeting of the new school year Monday at 8 p. m. in West Side School with Dr. Adam Baer of Frostburg presiding.

The council meets four times each school year on the first Mondays in October, December, February and May.

Each association is entitled to five voting delegates but any number of members may attend council sessions. In the event each local PTA unit has five or more members at each of the four county meetings, the association will receive an attendance award that will pay one-half the expenses of a delegate to the annual summer state PTA conference.

To Name Delegates

The program Monday night will consist of naming delegates for the state convention to be held in Baltimore October 30 and 31. One city and one county school will be chosen to send one delegate each.

Mrs. Edward Wilson, this city, state by-laws chairman, will discuss plans for the convention.

Brief reports will be made by Mrs. Adam Baer and Mrs. Lester McGill, delegates to the national convention, last May in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Bernard Seib and Mrs. Earl Irons will report on the summer conference held at College Park in July.

Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, chairman of the fellowship dinner committee, will report on plans for the event that will be held October 22 at 6:30 p. m. at State Teachers College Frostburg by the county council.

Work plans for council committee chairmen for the year will be presented.

Mrs. Stanley Buckley, member of the Board of Education, will have charge of the opening ceremonies and Mrs. Robert Lord will have charge of music.

Local Girl To Be Bride Today

Miss Margaret Anne Macfarlane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Donald Macfarlane, 215 Bedford Street, is to become the bride of Carl Salve Hallqvist, Baltimore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hallqvist, Djuisholm, Sweden, today.

The wedding ceremony is being solemnized at 2:30 p. m., in First Presbyterian Church, with Rev. Seth Morrow officiating. Three standards of white chrysanthemums and candelabra of lighted tapers are being used in the decorations, against the background of palms. Greenery also marks the pews.

Mrs. John Grant, Baltimore, former resident, will be the bride's matron of honor and Mrs. Hugh D. Johnson, Baltimore, bridesmaid. Charles Abbott, Baltimore, is serving as Mr. Hallqvist's best man while Henry Powell Hopkins Jr., Gordon M. Allan, John Grant and John B. Macfarlane, brother of the bride, are the ushers.

Raymond Harrison Brown, Baltimore baritone, is singing, "Entreat Me not to Leave Thee," "Ich Liebe Dich," Greig; and "O Perfect Love," with Norman Scribner Jr., at the organ, who also is playing a few numbers of Bach and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, who is being given in marriage by her father, is wearing a gown of ivory satin fashioned on very plain lines, with fitted torso bodice, portrait neckline with lace from shoulder to shoulder, long sleeves and full skirt with chapel train. Her very full fingertip length veil of illusion is held by a Swedish bridal crown of silver a gift of the bridegroom. It has turquois and garnets in the band and pearls topping the points. She is carrying a cascade bouquet of fugi chrysanthemums.

Her attendants are wearing taffeta and satin gowns with fitted bodice and satin panel down the back of the flared skirt. Their taffeta hats are trimmed with satin and they have white mitts. The matron of honor's gown is tango color and the bridesmaids' mint green. Both are carrying bouquets of chrysanthemums shading from bronze through dark red to copper.

The bride attended Maryland School for the Blind, Eastern High School, Baltimore and four years at Peabody Conservatory of Music. Active in musical circles in Baltimore, Miss Macfarlane taught voice before accepting a position with the Fidelity Trust Company, Baltimore.

Her fiance is associated with Henry Hopkins Studios Silversmiths, Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane are entertaining with a reception for their daughter and her bridal party in the church hall following the ceremony. Baskets of garden flowers are being used in the decorations and flowers are adorning the tiered wedding cake.

For their wedding trip north, the bride is wearing a beige mixed tweed suit with brown accessories and a green orchid. Mr. Hallqvist and his bride will reside in Cleveland before going to Sweden next spring.

Mrs. Allan Lake Rice, Collegeville, Pa., sister of the bridegroom, will be among out of town guests.

Homemakers Plan Program

Recommendations for the 1953 program were made, a Nominating committee and delegate to the National Home Demonstration Agent's Council named at the Program Planning meeting of the county homemakers yesterday. Mrs. Douglas Smith was named chairman for the Nominating committee, which includes Mrs. C. R. Burkey, Mrs. Arthur Phillips, Mrs. Irene MacDonald and Mrs. L. H. Shafferman. A vice president and secretary are to be elected. Mrs. Holmes Cessna is delegate to the council at Raleigh, N. C., October 24.

It was suggested that some meetings be open to homemakers and the public, rather than just to project leaders, except where the number of demonstrators is limited.

One topic for all theme booths was recommended. Because of the cost of baking it was felt higher premiums should be given baked goods.

To promote attendance at Short Course, it was suggested having garden parties by the clubs when enrollments would be taken. It also was suggested to continue the radio programs.

Members were interested in carrying over the cotton dress project to be held in November; take up textile painting; the study of antique glass and wood; caning chairs, reupholstering; dramatization of books; principles of budgeting and simplification of kitchen work; continue home tours; lesson study of foreign policy and the UN; round table discussions with a moderator; show civil defense films; more interest in city government and attending council meetings; continue the study of music.

Reservations for Achievement day, October 15 at Ali Ghan Country Club, from 10:30 to 3:30, are to be made by October 9 with club presidents.

Secretaries To Hold Autumn Tea

Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association is having an autumn reception for prospective members.

It is being held at the home of Miss Clair Luicle Malin, 418 Washington Street, tomorrow from 3 until 5 o'clock. Fall flowers are being used in the decorations.

Members are inducted into the club anytime during the year after being accepted by the membership.

Miss Anna McGraw, chairman of the Social committee and Miss Pauline Peterson, Membership chairman are in charge of arrangements.

The regular business meeting is being held Monday at Central YMCA at 5:45 o'clock, beginning with a dinner. Definite arrangements will be made for the Boss Night party, October 23 at Ali Ghan Country Club.

GOP Women Organize 10 A. M. Club

The Women's Republican Club of Cumberland organized The 10 o'clock Club and heard numerous announcements at the meeting Thursday evening at Ali Ghan City Club. Mrs. George Barncord presided.

Mrs. Brooks Starcher was named chairman of the club and will appoint women to head the work in the precincts. The club is to get the voters out before 10 o'clock.

Announcements included a rummage sale October 14, given by Mrs. Harry Anderson. It is being held at Canada Hose house, beginning at 6:30 p. m.; members were urged to attend the card party being given by the Young Women's Republican Club at the Girl Scout house, October 20.

A letter was read from Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower thanking the club for its hospitality and the orchid corsage presented to her when she was here.

Mrs. Starcher, Education chairman, talked on why one should vote and how. She illustrated the talk with a sample ballot and showed a book of rules of accepted and rejected markings. She also discussed jury duty for women and the proposed daylight saving law.

Accomplishments of women in the 32 years since they have been eligible to vote, was stressed by Mrs. Lester Reed, Legislative chairman. Mrs. Paul Fletcher read a report on campaign budget and how the money is spent.

Concluding the evening refreshments were served with Mrs. Lena Owens, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Nave and Mrs. Goldie Hare. Thirty members attended.

Miss Morris J. J. Coniff To Marry

Miss Mary Dorothy Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Morris, 320 Holland Street, is to become the bride of John James Coniff, son of Francis Elmo Coniff, LaVale, and the late Mrs. Margaret Coniff, today.

The wedding ceremony is being solemnized at 10 a. m., in St. Patrick's Catholic Church with Rev. John U. Lyness officiating. Bouquets of white pompons and white fugi and candelabra of lighted tapers are decorating the altar.

Miss Rosemary Leo is to be the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. William Ingram will serve as Mr. Coniff's best man while Robert Morris, brother of the bride, and William Evans are the ushers. Sister Aquinette will play a program of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches.

Being given in marriage by her father, the bride is wearing a gown of Chantilly lace over satin. The bodice of lace is buttoned down the back and has short sleeves with nylon net yoke. The ballerina length double skirt is of nylon satin. With it she is wearing net mitts, a three quarter length veil of illusion held by a Chantilly lace cap bound with satin. Completing her costume she is carrying a bouquet of white pompons with orchid center.

Her maid of honor's gown is of cotillion blue nylon net, with cape with peter pan collar and tiered skirt. She has matching slippers, and a headdress and bouquet of pompons shading from bronze to light yellow.

Mrs. Morris has chosen a lavendar suit for her daughter's wedding and has a matching hat and black accessories. She has an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Catholic Girls Central High School, class of 1946 and is employed by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Her fiance is a graduate of LaSalle High School, in 1945 and is employed by the Automotive Supply Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris are entertaining with a wedding reception at their home following the ceremony. The bridal motif is being carried out in the white pompons and ferns and the three tiered wedding cake with the top tier heart shaped and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Miss Irene Ficik, Baltimore will preside at the punch bowl and Mrs. Lawrence Matt, aunt of the bride, is serving the cake.

For their wedding trip to New York City the bride is wearing a tweed bolero suit with brown alligator slippers and bag and brown velvet tam, and her orchid corsage.

Upon their return Mr. Coniff and his bride will reside at 811 Cecil Street.

Bedford Road Firemen Seek Reduction In Fire Insurance

The Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company has voted to purchase necessary equipment to meet Maryland Underwriters Bureau requirements for reduction of fire insurance on homes in the area covered by the outfit.

President W. Earle Lawyer announces that all that is needed is more hose, nozzles and other minor equipment which will cost $800.

Lawyer stated that when the equipment is received and the company approved by the underwriters, all residents and property owners will benefit by reduced fire insurance rates within a four-mile radius.

This covers Bedford Road, Hazen Road, Union Grove, Mason Road, Mill Road, Knobley Road, Valley Road and Pleasant Valley. It is believed nearly 1,000 families reside in this section.

Lawyer stated the savings annually from the reduction in fire insurance rates will amount to about $2,000.

The president pointed out the fire company has a newly decorated hall with a modern kitchen for serving dinners to groups.

The proceeds from these activities are used to pay on the building mortgage.

A public meeting is being planned to explain to residents and property owners how they may get their fire insurance reduction when the company is accredited.

The Personal Touch

Would Washington, Jefferson or Lincoln been defeated because they hadn't stopped at a whistle stop?

That is the charge stacked against a candidate who high-balled by a local loading platform on the high iron.

Everybody is after the sidetracked vote. When Jackson hosspowered it to the White House he spoke everywhere. Andy was a tough talker who even disagreed with the applause.

He combined the essential prescription for a successful candidate. A thorough grounding in rebuttals and the stopping ability of a milkman's hoss.

Politics was simpler in Washington's time. Mink was trapped outdoors.

Nobody objected to George's deep freeze at Valley Forge. His opponents claimed he was putting raisins in his snowballs.

Lincoln was the first to make rear observations from a parlor caravan. Al Smith added station breaks to Madison Square Garden in 1924. Franklin D. Roosevelt completed the circuit with singing commercials on television.

The Aztecs are believed to have first settled on what is now the site of Mexico City about 1325.

The fortress at Sacashuaman, Peru, which was built by the Incas, contains many irregularly shaped rocks, some weighing more than 200 tons, fit so precisely together that even today a knife blade cannot be driven between them.

There are some 600 churches in Rome.

County Plans Protesting Gas Rate Increase

A protest will be filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners against the proposed temporary rate increase as petitioned by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company.

The matter came up during a routine discussion at the board meeting yesterday. Commissioner William H. Lemmert asked the other board members how they felt about the matter and when both Commissioners James Holmes and James Orr stated they believe the proposed rate increase is "too high" it was decided to protest to the PSC.

The temporary rate increase would help meet increased costs until the PSC rules on a petition for higher rates filed September 22, the company contends.

The company cited increased operating costs brought about by higher taxes, higher prices on the gas bought from suppliers, higher prices on materials and higher wages and employee benefits in submitting its request for emergency financial relief. It said it was the first plea for an increase in over 20 years.

The proposed temporary net rates, applicable to all retail customers except industrial accounts, are as follows:

First 1,000 cubic feet or less per month, $1.50; next 4,000 cubic feet per month, 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet; next 5,000 cubic feet per month, 80 cents per 1,000 cubic feet; and all over 10,000 cubic feet per month, 65 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Hagerstown's uncanny ability to toss a monkey-wrench into the gears of Coach Ray Lester's Allegany High grid machine, spelled defeat to the Campers at the Fort Hill Stadium last night, as Mel Henry's Hub City eleven barely slid past the Alco eleven, 7-0.

For three full quarters both teams traded blows like a pair of heavyweights, until a 15-yard penalty for unnecessary roughness gave the visiting Maroon and Gray club the break they'd been waiting for.

Campers Gamble Loses

In the waning minute of the third stanza, the Campers gambled on fourth and lost as they dropped possession of the leather on their own 24. On the first play, a Alco tackler roughed-up a Hub City back, placing the ball on the nine.

On a nifty end-around play, which the invaders employed at numerous times during the fray, End Parks notched four yards to the five. Field General Bill Cianelli found the Camper line tough to crack, as he was stopped for no gain, as the third period drew an abrupt ending.

Fullback Curt Massey got the first try at the goal in the final canto, but he couldn't advance past the 3. A substitute halfback, Bowman, who ate up yardage all night for the winners, then crashed the center of the wall, and toppled into the end zone.

Gene Jenkins, after an off-side penalty cancelled his first attempt, booted the extra point.

Bowman Is Rough

Bowman was a rough customer to stop, as the Campers could hold him to nothing less than 104 over the turf. He tucked away that yardage in 18 carries. Halfback Ryan also had a great deal of success penetrating the losers' defenses.

Dick Rank ran well for the Campers, gaining 85 yards in 16 cracks at the line. Dave Walton was again tough as he marched for 68 yards in 15 runs.

Donnie Springer, the winners' defensive star of the night, had a nack of stopping many ground thrusts of the locals, with a good bit of assistance from Parks. Ralph Shaffer, and "Chuck" Eirich played well on defense for Lester's brigade.

It was the 29th game in the modern series between the two clubs. The win was the 12th for Hagerstown. Allegany has won 15 times, and two games have resulted in ties. The lineups:

Illini-Badger Tilt Headlines Gridiron Slate

Big Ten Crown May Be Decided

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—College football muscles back into the World Series-dominated sports scene tomorrow with an outstanding collection of matches headed by the Illinois-Wisconsin and Michigan-Stanford clashes.

For matchmaking, the collision of second-ranked Illinois and eighth ranked Wisconsin at Madison rates top billing. For national spectator interest, Michigan and Stanford comes first. The 5 p. m. (EST) intersectional tilt from Palo Alto, Calif., will be telecast from coast to coast.

Rated Even Affair

Illini warmed up for the big one by belting Iowa State, 33-7, last Saturday while Wisconsin bashed Marquette, 42-19.

The Michigan-Stanford game is also rated an even affair. The Wolverines were whipped by Michigan State's No. 1 outfit last week, 27-13, while Stanford edged Washington State, 14-13.

Michigan State journeys to Portland to take on Oregon State, Notre Dame, ranked 19th, tangles with fifth-ranked Texas at Austin, sixth-ranked Georgia Tech meets Southern Methodist at Dallas, Army faces seventh-rated Southern California at Los Angeles; fourth-ranked California visits Minnesota at Minneapolis, Pittsburgh treks to Oklahoma and 12th-ranked Villanova takes on Detroit in the Motor City.

The top game in the South sends 11th-ranked Tennessee against onsurging Duke, ranked tenth, at Durham. Purdue and Ohio State, two other contenders for the Big Ten title, meet at Columbus.

In the East, the major conflicts pit Navy against Cornell at Ithaca and Darthmouth against Penn at Philadelphia. Princeton is favored to continue its winning streak against Rutgers at Princeton.

Maryland, the nation's No. 3 eleven, will tussle with Clemson in the battle of the Southern Conference's "black sheep" at College Park, Md.

Georgia Hosts NC State

Kentucky and Texas A & M meet at College Station, Washington State vies with Baylor at Waco and Louisiana State opposes Rice at Houston.

Georgia will host North Carolina State instead of polio-stricken North Carolina at Athens. The game was hastily arranged when North Carolina was forced to cancel out because of polio cases on the campus. Davidson, scheduled to play N. C. State Saturday night, agreed to postpone that game until next week.

Other major games on the Saturday card include:

East: Brown at Yale, Columbia at Harvard, Fordham at Holy Cross, Colgate at Buffalo, New York U. at Kings Point, Waynesburg at West Virginia and Mary at Penn State.

Other Games Listed

Southwest: Arkansas at Texas Christian, New Mexico A&M at New Mexico, Houston at Oklahoma A & M.

Far West: Texas Tech at College of Pacific, UCLA at Washington, Oregon at Idaho, Arizona at Utah, Colorado A & M at Denver, Brigham Young at Montana, Wyoming at Utah State, Idaho State at Colorado College.

Laurel To Open Its Season Today

LAUREL, Md., Oct. (AP)—The first stakes event run on the turf in Maryland tomorrow launches 52 days of fall horse racing in the state.

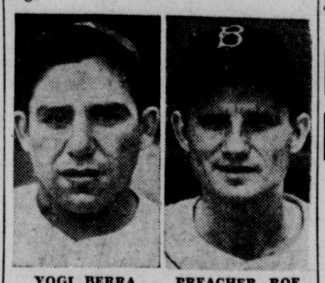

Ten horses are entered for the $15,000 Turf Handicap, first of six stakes during the 15 days of racing at Laurel. Pimlico follows with 19 days and Bowie winds up the Maryland season with 18 days.

Berra's Passed Ball Enables Dodgers To Top Yankees, 5-3

Brooks Take Lead In Series; Mize Hits Pinch Homer

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Yogi Berra pulled a horrendous blunder by letting two Brooklyn runs stream home on a passed ball while the dazed catcher stood by in the ninth inning today. As a result the Dodgers took the World Series lead, two games to one, with a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees on Preacher Roe's gritty six-hit pitching.

YOGI BERRA PREACHER ROE

Berra's glaring error, boosting a 3-2 Dodger lead to 5-2 at the time, became an agonizing nightmare when Johnny Mize delivered a pinch-hit homer in the bottom of the ninth that would have tied the score.

Full Double Steal

There were men on second and third, as the result of a double steal following back-to-back singles by Peewee Reese and Jackie Robinson, when relief pitcher Tom Gorman threw an inside 2-2 pitch to Andy Pafko.

The ball glanced off Berra's left hand and rolled to the screen near the Brooklyn dugout, about 75 feet from the plate.

Berra whirled around and then stopped as the ball rolled to the screen. Reese already was winging across the plate. When the dazed Yogi failed to rush after the ball, Robinson also steamed home.

While Roe fiddled and the Yanks burned, Brooklyn ripped into its favorite meat—a lefthander. Eddie Lopat, who brought a shiny 3-0 World Series record into the game, was knocked loose in the ninth just before the passed ball incident. He gave up 10 of the 11 Brooklyn hits, all singles except one.

Yanks Grab Lead

This was a tingling ball game that kept the 66,698 fans jumping because there were baserunners galore. Only in two innings — the third and seventh — did the Yanks have no runners. The Dodgers were even rougher on Lopat, who retired the side in order only once — the sixth.

For the first time in the series, the Yanks bounced into an early lead, scoring in the second inning when Lopat punched a 3-2 pitch into center field for a run-scoring single following walks to Hank Bauer and Billy Martin. Bauer scored from second on the hit.

The Brooks were getting men on base and it was only a matter of time until something gave way. It gave in the third when Carl Furillo, hitless in the first two games, slashed a ground rule double that hopped into the right field seats.

Reese's bunt down the third base line to Lopat was perfectly placed for a single. Robinson's long fly to Mickey Mantle was deep enough to drive home Furillo.

Dodgers Take Lead

Brooklyn took the lead it never yielded in the fifth when Cox singled—also his first series hit—took second on Roe's neat sacrifice and came all the way from second on Reese's dropping single past Martin's straining reach in short right.

It was evident that Lopat didn't have it in the eighth. Robinson and Campanella opened with singles and Pafko's fly to Woodling was long enough to score Robby from third base for a 3-1 lead.

Berra's well-hit home run closed the gap to 3-2 going to the ninth where Lopat faltered and Berra made his mistake.

The Woodmen of the World shuffleboard team scored a 3-0 victory over the Hi Dee Club in the Men's National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County last night on the loser's boards. Welsh and Engle tied for the Hi Dee top scorers with 18 points apiece while Getson had 23 markers for WOW.

Black, Reynolds Named To Pitch 4th Series Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Joe Black, Brooklyn's brilliant rookie, and Allie Reynolds, star of the New York Yankees' staff, were named today to pitch the fourth game of the World Series tomorrow at Yankee Stadium.

Black, fugitive from the Brooklyn bullpen who started only two regular season games, beat Reynolds, 4-2, in the opening game.

Beall To Host Frederick Today

Mountaineers Seek 2nd Win Of Year

The Beall High School Mountaineers, under Coach Ray Hull, will be gunning for their second victory of the grid season when they play host to the Frederick High Cadets at Beall Stadium this afternoon. Kickoff time is set for 2 p. m.

The Mounties, after trouncing James Wood, 20-0, in their inaugural contest this fall, dropped a close 13-7 decision last week to Allegany.

The invading forces of Coach Homer Brooks have won their first two battles, defeating both Bel Air and Annapolis by convincing scores. The Cadets, thus far, have not been scored upon.

Co-captains for the Beall crew will be Quarterback Bill Davis and End Paul Thompson, Coach Hull has announced. Officials who will work the contest will be Jim Fahey, "Bobby" Cavanaugh and "Bee" Orndorff.

Beall will be playing without the services of two regular performers. Both Tackle Ronnie Brenneman, and Guard Tom Martin will not see action due to injuries acquired in the Allegany fray.

Brenneman will be forced to remain out of the lineup for at least three weeks, because of a fracture in his left foot.

Last season Frederick won a 27-18 triumph from Beall.

Other area grid games today include Bedford at Westmont and Franklin at West Virginia School for Deaf in Romney. The latter contest is a Potomac Valley Conference affair.

Dog Show Set For Tomorrow

Suggestions For Contestants Made

The Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club's first all-breed sanctioned match is scheduled tomorrow at Cumberland Fairgrounds with judging to begin at 1 p. m.

Suggestions by officials for entrants in the match were made yesterday. Primarily they said contestants may enter as many dogs of either sex as desired. Dogs may be any age over six months and a small entry fee is required.

Dog should wear a collar with lead attached for handling in the ring during judging. Animal must be purebred although not necessarily registered. A well-groomed dog is a vital factor in judging and entries may be made just prior to the show.

Entry blank calls for name of sire and dam of animal and its age and registration number if the dog is recorded.

Members of the kennel club wil be on hand tomorrow to assist entrants during sanctioned match.

Plan Banquet

A banquet will be held for the Bi-State Baseball League Hyndman Firemen at the Mayfair Tavern, Sunday, October 12, J. W. Hollen, secretary of the club, announced last night. All players and wives and friends are invited to attend the annual affair.

53-Yard Pass Debut

A West Virginia University freshman, quarterback Fred Wyant, tossed a touchdown pass 53 yards in the air in his first intercollegiate game.

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 3—The trusty toe of Center Joe Corbin and a 21-point splurge in the final period gave Romney High's Pioneers a convincing 45-6 triumph over the Moorefield High Yellowjackets here yesterday in a Potomac Valley Conference battle.

Corbin booted six extra points after touchdowns, a 15-yard field goal and averaged 41 yards per kick on three successful punts for the winning Romney gridders.

Roger Parker tallied the opening touchdown in the first period for Romney, which racked up its fourth straight victory, with a six-yard plunge and after Joe Ely took a nine-yard pass from Ed Hartman for the second Pioneer tally in the second stanza Moorefield roared back to score following a brilliant 60 yard run by Halfback Wilson. Romney then took a 17-6 halftime lead when Corbin connected with a 15-yard field goal.

Ray Haines tallied for the winners in the third stanza and then Romney broke the game wide open with three quick scores in the final stanza.

Ely's 80-yard romp for one touchdown was the longest running play for the game while Hartman's passing stood out for the Pioneers. Parkers caught passes for 40 and 32 yards and a 25-yarder for another td. The lineups:

Martinsburg Scores 21-20 Win On Safety

A safety scored midway in the third period spelled disaster for Coach Bill Hahn's Fort Hill Sentinels last night in Martinsburg as the Bulldogs eked out a 21-20 victory over the Red Raiders to smash the Fort Hillians' 11-game winning streak.

It marked the first time since 1938 the Bulldogs, coached by John Cobourne, had scored a win over the Sentinels.

The first half of the game was a wild-scoring affair with each team moving at will. Long runs marked the contest with Martinsburg breaking the ice on the opening kickoff and marching 54 yards for the first touchdown as Claude Flagg took it over from the one.

Fort Hill knotted the count with a 54-yard march of its own, John McVicker taking the pigskin over from the one after Harold Gilpin's 25-yard scamper had set up the score.

Another Martinsburg td by Melvin Hamilton made it 13-12 and Farris tallied his second six-pointer after the following kickoff, racing 51 yards for the score. His kick made it 20-12.

Later Netoskie registered on a 30-yard sprint to make it 20-19 at halftime.

In the third period, after a penalty had put the ball on the Fort Hill one, Farris attempted to run the ball, was tackled in the end zone by Charles Baker for the winning points.

Farris was injured later in the game and taken to a Martinsburg hospital where the extent of his injuries were not revealed. The lineups:

Hagerstown's uncanny ability to toss a monkey-wrench into the gears of Coach Ray Lester's Allegany High grid machine, spelled defeat to the Campers at the Fort Hill Stadium last night, as Mel Henry's Hub City eleven barely slid past the Alco eleven, 7-0.

For three full quarters both teams traded blows like a pair of heavyweights, until a 15-yard penalty for unnecessary roughness gave the visiting Maroon and Gray club the break they'd been waiting for.

Campers Gamble Loses

In the waning minute of the third stanza, the Campers gambled on fourth and lost as they dropped possession of the leather on their own 24. On the first play, a Alco tackler roughed-up a Hub City back, placing the ball on the nine.

On a nifty end-around play, which the invaders employed at numerous times during the fray, End Parks notched four yards to the five. Field General Bill Cianelli found the Camper line tough to crack, as he was stopped for no gain, as the third period drew an abrupt ending.

Fullback Curt Massey got the first try at the goal in the final canto, but he couldn't advance past the 3. A substitute halfback, Bowman, who ate up yardage all night for the winners, then crashed the center of the wall, and toppled into the end zone.

Gene Jenkins, after an off-side penalty cancelled his first attempt, booted the extra point.

Bowman Is Rough

Bowman was a rough customer to stop, as the Campers could hold him to nothing less than 104 over the turf. He tucked away that yardage in 18 carries. Halfback Ryan also had a great deal of success penetrating the losers' defenses.

Dick Rank ran well for the Campers, gaining 85 yards in 16 cracks at the line. Dave Walton was again tough as he marched for 68 yards in 15 runs.

Donnie Springer, the winners' defensive star of the night, had a nack of stopping many ground thrusts of the locals, with a good bit of assistance from Parks. Ralph Shaffer, and "Chuck" Eirich played well on defense for Lester's brigade.

It was the 29th game in the modern series between the two clubs. The win was the 12th for Hagerstown. Allegany has won 15 times, and two games have resulted in ties. The lineups:

Illini-Badger Tilt Headlines Gridiron Slate

Big Ten Crown May Be Decided

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—College football muscles back into the World Series-dominated sports scene tomorrow with an outstanding collection of matches headed by the Illinois-Wisconsin and Michigan-Stanford clashes.

For matchmaking, the collision of second-ranked Illinois and eighth ranked Wisconsin at Madison rates top billing. For national spectator interest, Michigan and Stanford comes first. The 5 p. m. (EST) intersectional tilt from Palo Alto, Calif., will be telecast from coast to coast.

Rated Even Affair

Illini warmed up for the big one by belting Iowa State, 33-7, last Saturday while Wisconsin bashed Marquette, 42-19.

The Michigan-Stanford game is also rated an even affair. The Wolverines were whipped by Michigan State's No. 1 outfit last week, 27-13, while Stanford edged Washington State, 14-13.

Michigan State journeys to Portland to take on Oregon State, Notre Dame, ranked 19th, tangles with fifth-ranked Texas at Austin, sixth-ranked Georgia Tech meets Southern Methodist at Dallas, Army faces seventh-rated Southern California at Los Angeles; fourth-ranked California visits Minnesota at Minneapolis, Pittsburgh treks to Oklahoma and 12th-ranked Villanova takes on Detroit in the Motor City.

The top game in the South sends 11th-ranked Tennessee against onsurging Duke, ranked tenth, at Durham. Purdue and Ohio State, two other contenders for the Big Ten title, meet at Columbus.

In the East, the major conflicts pit Navy against Cornell at Ithaca and Darthmouth against Penn at Philadelphia. Princeton is favored to continue its winning streak against Rutgers at Princeton.

Maryland, the nation's No. 3 eleven, will tussle with Clemson in the battle of the Southern Conference's "black sheep" at College Park, Md.

Georgia Hosts NC State

Kentucky and Texas A & M meet at College Station, Washington State vies with Baylor at Waco and Louisiana State opposes Rice at Houston.

Georgia will host North Carolina State instead of polio-stricken North Carolina at Athens. The game was hastily arranged when North Carolina was forced to cancel out because of polio cases on the campus. Davidson, scheduled to play N. C. State Saturday night, agreed to postpone that game until next week.

Other major games on the Saturday card include:

East: Brown at Yale, Columbia at Harvard, Fordham at Holy Cross. Colgate at Buffalo, New York U. at Kings Point, Waynesburg at West Virginia and Mary at Penn State.

Other Games Listed

Southwest: Arkansas at Texas Christian, New Mexico A&M at New Mexico, Houston at Oklahoma A & M.

Far West: Texas Tech at College of Pacific, UCLA at Washington, Oregon at Idaho, Arizona at Utah, Colorado A & M at Denver, Brigham Young at Montana, Wyoming at Utah State, Idaho State at Colorado College.

Berra's Passed Ball Enables Dodgers To Top Yankees, 5-3

Brooks Take Lead In Series; Mize Hits Pinch Homer

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Yogi Berra pulled a horrendous blunder by letting two Brooklyn runs stream home on a passed ball while the dazed catcher stood by in the ninth inning today. As a result the Dodgers took the World Series lead, two games to one, with a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees on Preacher Roe's gritty six-hit pitching.

YOGI BERRA PREACHER ROE

Berra's glaring error, boosting a 3-2 Dodger lead to 5-2 at the time, became an agonizing nightmare when Johnny Mize delivered a pinch-hit homer in the bottom of the ninth that would have tied the score.

Pull Double Steal

There were men on second and third, as the result of a double steal following back-to-back singles by Peewee Reese and Jackie Robinson, when relief pitcher Tom Gorman threw an inside 2-2 pitch to Andy Pafko.

The ball glanced off Berra's left hand and rolled to the screen near the Brooklyn dugout, about 75 feet from the plate.

Berra whirled around and then stopped as the ball rolled to the screen. Reese already was winging across the plate. When the dazed Yogi failed to rush after the ball, Robinson also steamed home.

While Roe fiddled and the Yanks burned, Brooklyn ripped into its favorite meat—a lefthander. Eddie Lopat, who brought a shiny 3-0 World Series record into the game, was knocked loose in the ninth just before the passed ball incident. He gave up 10 of the 11 Brooklyn hits, all singles except one.

Yanks Grab Lead

This was a tingling ball game that kept the 66,698 fans jumping because there were baserunners galore. Only in two innings — the third and seventh — did the Yanks have no runners. The Dodgers were even rougher on Lopat, who retired the side in order only once — the sixth.

For the first time in the series, the Yanks bounced into an early lead, scoring in the second inning when Lopat punched a 3-2 pitch into center field for a run-scoring single following walks to Hank Bauer and Billy Martin. Bauer scored from second on the hit.

The Brooks were getting men on base and it was only a matter of time until something gave way. It gave in the third when Carl Furillo, hitless in the first two games, slashed a ground rule double that hopped into the right field seats.

Reese's bunt down the third base line to Lopat was perfectly placed for a single, Robinson's long fly to Mickey Mantle was deep enough to drive home Furillo.

Dodgers Take Lead

Brooklyn took the lead it never yielded in the fifth when Cox singled—also his first series hit—took second on Roe's neat sacrifice and came all the way from second on Reese's dropping single past Martin's straining reach in short right.

It was evident that Lopat didn't have it in the eighth. Robinson and Campanella opened with singles and Pafko's fly to Woodling was long enough to score Robby from third base for a 3-1 lead.

Berra's well-hit home run closed the gap to 3-2 going to the ninth where Lopat faltered and Berra made his mistake.

Black, Reynolds Named To Pitch 4th Series Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Joe Black, Brooklyn's brilliant rookie, and Allie Reynolds, star of the New York Yankees' staff, were named today to pitch the fourth game of the World Series tomorrow at Yankee Stadium.

Black, fugitive from the Brooklyn bullpen who started only two regular season games, beat Reynolds, 4-2, in the opening game.

Beall To Host Frederick Today

Mountaineers Seek 2nd Win Of Year

The Beall High School Mountaineers, under Coach Ray Hull, will be gunning for their second victory of the grid season when they play host to the Frederick High Cadets at Beall Stadium this afternoon. Kickoff time is set for 2 p. m.

The Mounties, after trouncing James Wood, 20-0, in their inaugural contest this fall, dropped a close 13-7 decision last week to Allegany.

The invading forces of Coach Homer Brooks have won their first two battles, defeating both Bel Air and Annapolis by convincing scores. The Cadets, thus far, have not been scored upon.

Co-captains for the Beall crew will be Quarterback Bill Davis and End Paul Thompson, Coach Hull has announced. Officials who will work the contest will be Jim Fahey, "Bobby" Cavanaugh and "Bee" Orndorff.

Beall will be playing without the services of two regular performers. Both Tackle Ronnie Brenneman, and Guard Tom Martin will not see action due to injuries acquired in the Allegany fray.

Brenneman will be forced to remain out of the lineup for at least three weeks, because of a fracture in his left foot.

Last season Frederick won a 27-18 triumph from Beall.

Other area grid games today include Bedford at Westmont and Franklin at West Virginia School for Deaf in Romney. The latter contest is a Potomac Valley Conference affair.

Dog Show Set For Tomorrow

Suggestions For Contestants Made

The Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club's first all-breed sanctioned match is scheduled tomorrow at Cumberland Fairgrounds with judging to begin at 1 p. m.

Suggestions by officials for entrants in the match were made yesterday. Primarily they said contestants may enter as many dogs of either sex as desired. Dogs may be any age over six months and a small entry fee is required.

Dog should wear a collar with lead attached for handling in the ring during judging. Animal must be purebred although not necessarily registered. A well-groomed dog is a vital factor in judging and entries may be made just prior to the show.

Entry blank calls for name of sire and dam of animal and its age and registration number if the dog is recorded.

Plan Banquet

A banquet will be held for the Bi-State Baseball League Hyndman Firemen at the Mayfair Tavern, Sunday, October 12, J. W. Hollen, secretary of the club, announced last night. All players and wives and friends are invited to attend the annual affair.

53-Yard Pass Debut

A West Virginia University freshman, quarterback Fred Wyant, tossed a touchdown pass 53 yards in the air in his first intercollegiate game.

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 3—The trusty toe of Center Joe Corbin and a 21-point splurge in the final period gave Romney High's Pioneers a convincing 45-6 triumph over the Moorefield High Yellowjackets here yesterday in a Potomac Valley Conference battle.

Corbin booted six extra points after touchdowns, a 15-yard field goal and averaged 41 yards per kick on three successful punts for the winning Romney gridders.

Roger Parker tallied the opening touchdown in the first period for Romney, which racked up its fourth straight victory, with a six-yard plunge and after Joe Ely took a nine-yard pass from Ed Hartman for the second Pioneer tally in the second stanza Moorefield roared back to score following a brilliant 60 yard run by Halfback Wilson. Romney then took a 17-6 halftime lead when Corbin connected with a 15-yard field goal.

Ely's 80-yard romp for one touchdown was the longest running play for the game while Hartman's passing stood out for the Pioneers. Parkers caught passes for 40 and 32 yards and a 25-yarder for another td. The lineups:

202	Yds. Gained Rushing	286
21	Yds. Lost Penalties	20

A safety scored midway in the third period spelled disaster for Coach Bill Hahn's Fort Hill Sentinels last night in Martinsburg as the Bulldogs eked out a 21-20 victory over the Red Raiders to smash the Fort Hillians' 11-game winning streak.

It marked the first time since 1938 the Bulldogs, coached by John Cobourne, had scored a win over the Sentinels.

The first half of the game was a wild-scoring affair with each team moving at will. Long runs marked the contest with Martinsburg breaking the ice on the opening kickoff and marching 54 yards for the first touchdown as Claude Flagg took it over from the one.

Fort Hill knotted the count with a 54-yard march of its own, John McVicker taking the pigskin over from the one after Harold Gilpin's 25-yard scamper had set up the score.

Another Martinsburg td by Melvin Hamilton made it 13-12 and Farris tallied his second six-pointer after the following kickoff, racing 51 yards for the score. His kick made it 20-12.

Later Netoskie registered on a 30-yard sprint to make it 20-19 at halftime.

In the third period, after a penalty had put the ball on the Fort Hill one, Farris attempted to run the ball, was tackled in the end zone by Charles Baker for the winning points.

Pos.	Fort Hill (20)	Martinsburg (21)

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk On "Character"

Report Is Made On Kids' Day Program

KEYSER—At the weekly dinner meeting of Keyser Kiwanis Club held Wednesday evening in the First Methodist Church dining room on North Davis Street, Roy McCabe, representative of the People's Insurance Company, in Keyser, delivered a strong talk on "Character."

He gave a description of character through an analysis of thought and action, and said that character is an inner force that causes us to keep our resolutions long after the initial time that the resolution was formed.

He referred to the deepness of thought and of action as an instrument of persuasion. In character, he said, there must be success, which is like happiness, which one will never find. It must be sought after and made by the individual himself.

A report was made by the committee that conducted the National Kids' Day Program in Keyser last Saturday. The report said that due to local conditions, which include the strike at the Luke paper mill and the fact that the B & O semi-monthly pay day was two days after the Kids' Day campaign, less money was raised by a considerable amount for the Kiwanis efforts to aid underprivileged children, than was received a year ago. Consequently Kiwanis efforts must be curtailed for lack of money during the coming year.

Charter Night for Keyser Kiwanis Club will be conducted Wednesday evening, which is another night for the ladies. Harrison Fuller was appointed to again direct preparations for the Charter night program.

Art Pennington, chairman of the nominating committee, announced his committee's slate of officers for the coming fiscal year as follows: For president, Harrison Fuller; vice-president, Frederick Dayton and William Stafford; treasurer, Olin Hawk; directors, for two years; Carroll Stanley, James Handlan, Jr., Robert Whitlach and Richard Davis, three to be elected. Other candidates may be named on the night of the election.

Gerould Klinestiver, aldernate delegate to the State Convention at Wheeling next week, was named to fill out the delegation for Harrison Fuller, delegate. Other delegates are W. E. Michael and Wiliam Stafford.

Paris Smith, Keyser, was initiated into the cub at the meeting.

Librarians Will Meet In Keyser Next Weekend

State Association Plans Convention

KEYSER — Approximately 100 members of the West Virginia Library Association with the guests of Potomac State School here when the 38th annual convention of the state organization convenes here for the first time in its history next Friday and Saturday.

"Education for Librarianship in West Virginia" is the general theme of the two- day meet which will begin with registration from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. Friday in Science Hall. There will be a banquet in Science Hall at 7 p. m. Miss Rosa C. Oliver, acting vice president, will preside over the meeting. Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State School, will welcome the visiting delegates.

Hugh Behymer, librarian at Bethany College, who recently returned from a year's study of libraries in Australia, will be guest speaker at the evening session. Mrs. E. E. Church and Leonard G. Withers will present piano numbers.

A general meeting will be held at 9:30 a. m. Saturday and sectional meetings are scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. Miss Mae Graham, supervisor, school and children's libraries, library extension division, State Department of Education, Baltimore, will speak to the college library group.

George Moreland, director of the Department of Public Libraries for Maryland, will speak to the public library section. Miss Mary Shipper, local chairman, in a statement about the meetings, said it is hoped that enough public school librarians from this area will attend so that it will be possible to form a section for public school librarians.

A luncheon-meeting will be held at 12:30 p. m. and Behymer will preside with George Moreland as speaker. The meet will adjourn following a general session at 2:30 p. m., when officers will be elected and other items of business will be taken care of.

Reservations for the banquet and the luncheon should be made with Miss Shipper, librarian at Potomac State School, not later than today.

Club Head Named

A general meeting will be held at 9:30 a. m. Saturday and sectional meetings are scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. Miss Mae Graham, supervisor, school and children's libraries, library extension division, State Department of Education, Baltimore, will speak to the college library group.

George Moreland, director of the Department of Public Libraries for Maryland, will speak to the public library section. Miss Mary Shipper, local chairman, in a statement about the meetings, said it is hoped that enough public school librarians from this area will attend so that it will be possible to form a section for public school librarians.

A luncheon-meeting will be held at 12:30 p. m. and Behymer will preside with George Moreland as speaker. The meet will adjourn following a general session at 2:30 p. m., when officers will be elected and other items of business will be taken care of.

Reservations for the banquet and the luncheon should be made with Miss Shipper, librarian at Potomac State School, not later than today.

Little Theatre Of Frostburg Has Initiation

Cast Is Announced For Oct. 23 Play

FROSTBURG — At a candlelight ceremony held Wednesday evening in the club room of Frostburg State Teachers College, a group of students were initiated into the Little Theatre, including Miss Katherine Fleckenstein, president, and Bruce Ambrose, vice president, both of Cumberland.

Miss Susan Richmond, secretary, and Miss Alice Meconi, treasurer, were in charge of the initiation.

Others initiated were Ronald Fearer, Leo Rowan, Ronald Rowan, Fred Gero, James Dunn, Eleanor Whetsell, Jean Browning, Eileen Miller, Janice Spessard, Lucy Kreichbaum, Charles Briggs, Ruth Collier, Lois Ann Neilson, Thomas Connor, Gloria Wilson, Pauline House, W. Edward Wallace, Bette Ramsey, Joan Snyder, Phyllis McKenzie, Nellie Fulk and Teresa Cavallaro.

A business meeting and social hour followed. Miss JoAnn Fisher and Miss Norma Hicks were in charge of social arrangements and presided at the punch bowl.

Miss Edith E. Humphrey, faculty sponsor, announced the cast and committee for the Freshman play to be presented at "Parent's Night," October 23. A number of productions are planned by the group this year.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (INS) — Olivia De Havilland is set for "End of the Affair," and this is the answer to David Lewis' prayers. What faith he has had in this Graham Greene book!

Olivia tells me the script is brilliant, and that she is glad David plans to make the picture in England. She is perfectly willing to go there next spring, which is the time set for production.

There have been many months of discouragement for David, who bought the film rights to the novel as an independent venture. But now it looks like smooth sailing ahead.

Unexpectedly Claudette Colbert's husband, Dr. Joel Pressman, flew to Paris to spend four days with her.

Claudette will remain in Europe at least 18 months and probably longer, returning with a nice big bankroll. She has more picture offers than she can hope to fill.

Dr. Pressman's hurried trip to Paris, should end the rumors that all is not well with him and Claudette. She goes to Salzburg next week to star in "Finale" with Anton Walbrook as her co-star. It's a Max Opuls production.

A creative and inventive mind has Les Brown, the extremely able young orchestra leader who accompanied Bob Hope to Korea.

"I'm figuring," he told me when I met him, "on getting out a whole 'weather' album, with well known numbers expressing that thought."

Then we tried to remember musical numbers that had something to do with the weather. We came up with "Stormy Weather," "Weather Vane," "Clouds," and Jimmy McHugh's "Lost in a Fog.' If any of my readers have any ideas — send them along, not to me but to Mr. Brown.

Although my street address is no secret to most of Hollywood, nor to the sightseers who pass by, map in hand, one young newcomer to pictures has a unique reason for knowing it.

He is Coleman Francis, who won the John Golden Award in New York a few years ago, and now is starting his movie career. He knows my house because he used to be a delivery boy for I. Magnin's, and remembers delivering some dresses in a hurry to my door. His success is just wonderful.

I'm certainly glad that Richard Basehart, who hasn't made a picture for too long, has himself a very good role with Charles Brackett in "Nearer My God to Thee," the story of the Titanic.

Basehart plays a priest who is in difficulty, but when the Titanic disaster comes he remembers the vows he made to God and does everything to assist the frightened people on the ship.

Barbara Stanwyck, Clifton Webb and Thelma Ritter are the others in the cast.

On Oct. 12 Vittorio Gassman takes off for Rome where he'll remain six months. Shelley Winters follows next month, coming back here in time to have her baby.

Anything prophetic in the title "Haste to the Wedding," Liam O'rien's new play? This may very well happen to the playwright and Monica Lewis very soon.

The Sahara, the new hotel in Las Vegas, is alerting all columnists by sending souvenirs every day — such things as legs of wax, miniature slot machines, etc., etc. Florence Chadwick, channel champion, flies out from New York to open the pool.

On Oct. 6 Arthur B. Goode is showing George Rooney's amazing collection of primitive sculpture, and pre-Columbus portraits, as well as oriental art from David Belasco's collection.

Joan Fontaine has rented an apartment in Paris and isn't even talking about returning. Collier Young is still in Europe.

Talked to Jules Stein on the long distance telephone. He's coming here next week for a short stay. Doris is here to see her parents, who aren't well. The Steins will make their home in New York and will sell their beautiful home in Beverly Hills.

Looks or books? That's the question with Ava Gardner. She must either cut down on her clothes or her reading matter when she flies to Africa for "Mogambo."

That's all today. See you Monday

Lillian D. Cavallero, Plaintiff vs. Ricardo Cavallero, also known as Raymond Stanley Carter, Defendant. No. 22,782 Equity In the Circuit Court For Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII for the Plaintiff, Lillian D. Cavallero of Allegany County, Maryland, against her husband, Ricardo Cavallero, also known as Raymond Stanley Carter, defendant, whose last known address was 5006 Cordelia Avenue, Baltimore 15, Maryland, and whose residence is unknown, two successive subpoenas having been issued against the said Ricardo Cavallero, also known as Raymond Stanley Carter, Defendant, and returned "Non Est" by the Sheriff of Baltimore City.

The bill states that on the 22nd day of September, 1947, the said Lillian D. Cavallero was married to Ricardo Cavallero, also known as Raymond Stanley Carter, with whom she resided until the 7th day of January, 1951, and that two children were born of said marriage who are still alive and infants, viz: Ricardo, Jr. and Donald Milton; that the said Ricardo Cavallero, also known as Raymond Stanley Carter, has declared his intention to live with her no longer and has abandoned her without any just cause or reason, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the said Lillian D. Cavallero requests the guardianship and custody of the said infant children.

It is thereupon this 11th day of September, 1952, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once each week for four successive weeks before the 13th day of October, 1952, giving notice to the said Ricardo Cavallero, also known as Raymond Stanley Carter, against whom two successive subpoenas have been returned "Non Est" of the object and substance of this bill of complaint and warning him to be and appear in this court in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 29th day of October, 1952, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Down in the Valley...

Every year about this time "fall fever" erupts into World Seriesitis and takes a great big hold on the American mind. 1952 is no exception, of course, and the symptoms have developed into a full-fledged epidemic. The only known cure is one large dose of baseball each day for a period of four to seven days. After that you're cured . . . or, more likely, limp with exhaustion. Luckily it seldom proves a fatal illness but continues chronically year after year (to the great joy of almost everyone). And so, we invite you Down In the Valley for a small does of cure, via TAYLORVISION, that is. While you're at it we'll help you to stock up on calories with the best food and drink hereabouts!

by John Crosby

Random Observations

I was watching a half hour dramatic show called "The Doctor" the other night. Some little tale about a farmer who went berserk, trying to find some buried money on his place. A little while later, an old British film came on — a little less than a masterpiece named "Hard Steel"- and this, too, displayed the disintegrating effect of success and money on a man's character.

John Crosby

Then there's Margaret Halsey's new book, "The Folks At Home," which laments pretty much the same thing at great length. If I understand Miss Halsey correctly, she's saying that our competitive drive is splitting us psychically right down the middle into nervous wrecks, an interesting but, I think, questionable hypothesis.

My own feelings in the matter were summed up succintly by George Kaufman one night on "This Is Show Business." Martha Wright, the star of "South Pacific," asked the panel to supply her with a formula for happiness, a tall order. "Well," observed Tanglethatch sourly, "we all know money doesn't bring happiness — as Senator Nixon can testify — so just give your money away. Give it to me."

Clearly, Mr. Kaufman is not afraid of the corroding effects on him of cold cash. Neither am I. The destructive effect of gold on our souls has been a rather persistent refrain in our literature for a long time. Well, it's a valid enough theme but I should like to register a small dissent. It doesn't have to happen that way.

I once knew a guy, a terribly cantankerous and generally neurotic fellow, who inherited a bundle of money. He had been a conspicuously unsuccessful collection of traumas —until he could pay his bills. Then he blossomed out into a benevolent, though dull, chap. He was good to his mother; he lowered the volume of his radio in deference to his neighbors; he contributed generously to cerebral palsy. His character didn't deteriorate at all under the impact of money. It improved. (It could hardly have got worse. It had to get better.)

I don't know that money really makes such monsters of us as the books say. The people I've found most passionately indignant of the condition of the poor are the very rich who have a lot of time on their hands for indignation. The rest of us are too busy earning a living. I've met some awfully nice folks who were successful and some awful crumbs who weren't. I should even lige to make the faintly subversive suggestion that the nice folks were nice because they were successful and had a little cash in the bank, that the crumbs were that way because they weren't.

Not every starving poet is fascinating, not every vice president a bore. It frequently works out the other way around. The man spiritual is not necessarily a better man or a more attractive one than the man material. I'm a little tired of the stereotypes on television that insist they are.

To change the subject, I'd like to get back to that British movie, which I'm sure even the British would agree was a bit of a stinker. Still, I was impressed with the quality of the acting which pervaded even the smallest roles. The actors, even a child actor about whom I'm not normally overwhelmed with enthusiasm, had a polish and finish notably lacking in our lesser efforts. (And believe me, this was one of Britain's lesser efforts.) Why can't we match them in this department?

Well, for one thing, the British are not afraid to cast a man with thinning hair, a straggly moustache and a paunch in a leading part—if the part calls for such an appearance. Over here, he'd have to resemble Joe Adonis. It wouldn't matter whether he could act. The emphasis in Britain is on acting; the emphasis here is on personality—and that applies from the very top stars to the very bottom. We cast types. The British cast actors.

This has a very great effect on the acting. The British, I've noticed, can act on a dozen different levels, depending on the current emotional content of the script. Our guys—the women are a different kettle of fish —try for a studied sameness in demeanor whether they're inviting a girl out to lunch or whether they've just been informed their mother has been shot dead.

SOME of the artifices employed by skillful declarers find you in an almost helpless position. You have no way at all to figure out what is your best move. Whatever you do may prove either the best or the worst possible thing for your side. All that you can do in such a crisis is make the most promising guess you can, and hope for the best.

South believed he was sacrificing when he made that 5-Clubs bid, giving North the option of leaving it in or taking out into diamonds, and he expected to be doubled. The fortunately-placed heart A enabled him to see he had a chance for the contract if he could limit his trump losers to two. West led the spade K. South of course ruffed, after assessing the trump situation.

West might have all four against him, in view of the double, or the A-K-J, in which event he was surely down one. But if East had any of those three honors, he might save the day; if the J, singleton, then the Q lead would do the job. Even if East had a singleton A or K, the Q lead might bamboozle West into thinking South had the other of the two toppers. So he led the club Q to the second trick.

Poor West was in a mean spot. He studied and ruminated, coming up with the idea that South probably was working a very old gag, hoping to lure the play of a low card from West, after which the A would kill one of his two honors. So he covered the Q with the K. Imagine the redness of his face then when East played the A. Now West could get only one more trick, with his club J, so the contract was made.

Your Weekend Question

What are the two big "L's" influencing the strength of your hand, over and above its total honor card power? Suppose we say the first one is Length—the length of your suit or suits. What is the other one, then, especially if your opponents had done a bit of suit bidding?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Yesterday's Answer

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

T U P D Y S L - J G P F R E , M P I I S Y K S U - K I S M , R G I N B S O C I G Y B R G I N J R C I B —H C K I C Y F .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: ACHILLES' WRATH, TO GREECE THE DIREFUL SPRING OF WOES UNNUMBERED—POPE.

Equity Suit Filed

Three Men Charged With $700 Burglary

Two Jailed In Weekend Theft At Lumber Plant; Third Sought

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and State Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator, said two of the men are being held in jail here, but the other is still at large.

In County Jail is Charles Edward Crawford, 41, of Klosterman's Addition. His brother, Samuel Steven Crawford, 31, of LaVale and Hagerstown, is being held in City Jail. Lilya and Baker declined to identify the third man pending his arrest.

Also being held in connection with the case, but without formal charges, are John Bell, alias Jakie Hoover, about 30, and Elbert Sandy, 16, both of Harrisonburg, Va.

Baker and Trooper First Class Donald R. Wade arrested Charles Crawford, Hoover and the Sandy boy Tuesday morning at Crawford's home after investigation led them to suspect Crawford.

Samuel Crawford was arrested by Baker and Lilya Thursday night in a trailer just east of Hagerstown, where he has been living for some time.

Officers said they found most of the loot yesterday morning in Charles Crawford's home and in a wooded section nearby.

It included three typewriters, a U. S. Postal meter, and a quantity of miscellaneous merchandise. Police said most of it was hidden in several piles of brush.

Baker and Lilya said culprits broke a lock on a garage door at the lumber company sometime between 1 p. m. Saturday and 1 p. m. Sunday. Then they broke a window leading into the office and removed the stolen merchandise.

Authorities said none of the prisoners had signed a formal statement last night, but the Crawfords were being questioned in connection with other weekend thefts.

Specifically, the warrants against the Crawfords and the unnamed third man charge breaking and entering and larceny. Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason issued the warrants yesterday. No date has been set for preliminary hearings.

Eastern Model RR Convention Begins Today

Over 100 Delegates Expected To Attend

Approximately 120 visitors are expected to attend Mid-Eastern Region convention of the National Model Railroad Association which will begin in Cumberland at noon.

Cumberland HO Model Railroad Club will be host to the convention. Registration at the Fort Cumberland Hotel will be from noon to 2 p. m.

Models built by local members will be on display at the hotel and visitors will be asked to exhibit their models.

At 1:30 p. m. buses will leave at short intervals from the Elks Home, South Centre Street, for a tour of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad backshops, roundhouse and Diesel shops.

A banquet has been scheduled for 6:30 o'clock tonight with Rev. Adam Grim, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, offering the prayer before the meal.

An address of welcome will be given by Mayor Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the B&O backshops.

During the banquet, Chester T. Williams, division superintendent of the B&O, will deliver a short address. Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins-Cumberland Division for the Western Maryland Railway, will speak followed by a motion picture on the activities of the Western Maryland. The evening program will include music by the Elks Quartet.

At 9:30 p. m. delegates will return to the Fort Cumberland Hotel ballroom for a business session and a talk by John A. Cupler, president of National Jet Company. Cupler will speak on "Microscopic Drilling."

Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock and short intervals afterward, delegates wil go by buses to inspect the Western Maryland shops.

Distinguished visitors expected to attend the local event are Larry Slagle of the B&O public relations office, Baltimore; Charles A. Brittman, manufacturer of electric motors and model cars used in model layouts; and representatives from other manufacturers.

Arrangements for Cumberland's first national model railroad convention are being made by William R. Ranck, local president, assisted by Richard Hollar, Joseph Ardinger, John Kington, Earl M. Nonnenmann, all of Cumberland, and James Lancaster, Mt. Savage, vice president of the Mid-Region Association.

Luke Workers To Hold Mass Meeting Monday

Members of Luke Local 676, United Paperworkers of America (CIO), will hold a mass meeting Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Welsh Theatre in Westernport.

Plans for the meeting were made yesterday after negotiators in Washington broke off efforts to end the strike which began at three West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plants August 21.

Negotiators from the Luke local, who will return to this area today, will present a full report of negotiations to the membership at Monday's meeting.

About 4,000 workers at Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa., are involved in the contract dispute.

The union has asked a five-cent hourly wage increase. The company has offered four cents. The labor rate at Luke and Covington is approximately $1.34 an hour and approximately $1.35½ at Williamsburg.

Weather

All signs last night pointed to the killing frost which is expected to reach this area today. Yesterday was cool and dry, with official temperatures ranging from 57 to 41. By 9 p. m., the thermometer had dropped to 42 in a cloudless sky, brightened by a full moon. The Constitution Park weather station reported humidity was a pleasant 43.5 per cent at 6 p. m. The frost, which will probably cause considerable damage to vegetation, will turn Western Maryland forests into a blaze of glory.

Deaths

Brother Of Area Woman Dies In Fall

FREDERICK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Police reported today an 81-year-old patient at Montevue, Frederick County home for the indigent, died in a fall from a fourth-floor window.

Officers said after an investigation that William A Brown, of Thurmont, a patient at the home only since last Tuesday, apparently jumped from the window. There were no witnesses.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. George Craig of Frostburg.

THOMAS F. EVANS

Thomas F. Evans, 87, retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad conductor, died last night at the home of his son, Daniel S. Evans, Valley Road, after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Evans, a native of Hyndman, Pa., had lived in Cumberland for 55 years. He was a son of the late Daniel S. and Elizabeth (Dicken) Evans. His wife, Mary L. Evans, died October 11, 1948.

He was a former conductor on the B. and O.'s Connelsville Division, a member of Division 263, Order of Railway Conductors, and of Central Methodist Church.

Also surviving are another son, Edward T. Evans, Jacksonville, Fla.; two daughters, Mrs. C. H. Miller, this city, and Mrs. O. G. Todd, Garrett, Ind.; two sisters, Mrs. Naomi Llewellyn and Mrs. Emma Robb, both of this city, nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The body is at Kight Funeral Home.

MRS CARRIE C. MARTIN

Mrs. Carrie C. Martin, 82, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 520 Columbia Avenue.

Divorce Granted

Heavy Frost Slated To Hit Area Today

Weather Expert Says Cold Winter Ahead

The warnings were issued as a full moon rose in a cold cloudless sky, reminding residents of the area that winter is just around the corner.

Temperatures in Cumberland were low all day yesterday and had dropped to the 42 degree mark by 9 p.m.

The brisk autumn air, the bureau said, is associated with a high pressure system covering the eastern half of the nation with only Florida escaping the falling temperatures.

But as the pressure area moves eastward, it added, winds will fall off and give way to southerly breezes beginning this afternoon, when the thermometers should rise somewhat.

The weather sage who helps compile the "Hagerstown Almanac" was just three days late in forecasting the state's first general frost. The almanac says that on Oct. 7, 8 and 9 it will be "fair and frosty."

He said he based his prediction on the cycle pattern that weather follows, plus the signs of a wet spring, hot summer and hot fall. "So we can expect a wet winter," he said.

Mineral County (W. Va.) voters yesterday gave overwhelming approval to continuation of a special levy to support the county's public school program.

Unofficial returns in a special referendum sdowed 88.9 per cent of the voters who cast ballots were in favor of the levy. The figures, in returns from all but one of the county's 31 precincts, were 2,482 for the levy and 308 against it.

The returns assured continuation for another three years of the special levy which was first authorized in 1949. By law, 60 per cent approval was required for continuing the levy.

County Superintendent of Schools H. L. Idleman said the reinstated levy will mean no increase in the county tax rate, since it has been in effect for three years.

Idleman said some of the funds obtained from the levy in the next three years will be used to keep teachers' salaries at their present rate, or higher.

Other income from the levy will go toward construction of new schools and additions, repairs and improvements to present buildings, and eliminations of fire hazards in some schools.

The fire hazard elimination program was begun with funds obtained from the first levy, but Idleman said some still remain. Lunch rooms also will be expanded to take care of increased enrollments.

Idleman said continuation of the levy was especially important to Mineral County's teachers, whose salaries rank 44th among those in the state's 55 counties.

544 Registrants Sign For Voting As Deadline Nears

Registrars for the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors were swamped all day yesterday as a record crowd of 544 county residents signed up so they can vote November 4.

Democrats for the third successive day took the edge in registration with 279 to 260 for the Republicans and five independents. These last-minute registrants brought the total of eligible voters almost to the 42,000 level.

Today is the absolute deadline for registration. The hours at the board's Court House basement office are 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Nurses Learn New Lifesaving Method

Student nurses at Memorial Hospital yesterday were instructed in a new method of artificial respiration and the use of a resuscitator by city firemen and policemen.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, Assistant Chief Robert Long and Firemen Raymond Leidinger of Central Company demonstrated the use of the back pressure-arm lift method of restoring breathing in unconscious persons.

Police Office Louis D. Downey demonstrated the use of the Police Department's resuscitator, a mechanical device which restores breathing by forcing oxygen into the lungs and withdrawing it at regular intervals.

Local Kiwanians Will Attend Area Meeting

Edwards And Berry Are Named Delegates

The Kiwanis Club of Cumberland will be represented at the 1952 convention of the Capital Kiwanis District October 9-11 at Baltimore, Carl F. Schmutz, president, announced yesterday.

William J. Edwards and Thomas N. Berry will convene with delegates from other clubs throughout the district comprised of Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia.

Albert V. Zimmerman, vice president of Kiwanis International and a banker-lumberman of Alexandria, La., will be featured speaker during the three-day meeting at Emerson Hotel.

Zimmerman was elected to the vice presidency of the community service organization last June at its International convention at Seattle. He is a past governor of the Louisiana-Mississippi-West Tennessee Kiwanis District and served a two-year term as trustee of Kiwanis International.

Claude B. Hellman, Baltimore, a prominent utilities executive, who last year served as president of Kiwanis International, also will speak.

The presiding officer will be J. Sinclair Selden, Jr., Hampton, Va., dairyman and governor of the Capital Kiwanis District.

Delegates from 113 clubs in the district, representing a membership of 7,000 business and professional leaders, will participate in the sessions. Committee conference, a discussion of plans for the coming year, and election of officers will highlight the convention program, Schmutz said.

Miss Sager Gives More Invitations To Exposition

Officials in six towns in the Cumberland trading area yesterday were invited by Miss Lorraine Sager, Miss Western Maryland of 1952, to attend the Greater Cumberland Industrial Exposition here October 16, 17 and 18.

Miss Sager and her escorts first stopped at Oakland, where Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh expressed assurance that he would come to Cumberland for the exposition. He said that a large delegation from Oakland can be expected. While there another invitation was extended to the Garrett County Board of Cimmissioners and was received by J. J. Ashby, clerk to the board.

Next stop on the visit to Cumberland's "good neighbors" was at Thomas, W. Va. Mayor Carmen DiBacco accepted the invitation and then presented Miss Sager with a box of candy on behalf of the Mayor and Council. Others present for the ceremony were H. A. Pase, city clerk; Thomas Coleman and C. R. (Buckshot) Thayer, councilmen.

Another Tucker county town, Davis, was next on the "good neighbor" tour. There, Mayor H. A. Meyer, who once operated a bus line from Davis to Cumberland, accepted the invitation and showed the Cumberlanders Blackwater Falls near Davis. He invited them to lunch but the heavy schedule prevented their acceptance.

Next stop was Petersburg, W. Va., where Mayor D. H. Trenton received the invitation. At Moorefield, W. Va., next on the tour, Mayor P. W. Clarke was absent and the invitation was accepted by Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, town recorder.

Final visit of the day was at Romney, W. Va., where Acting Mayor G. Edward Nogle, a member of the Town Council, got the invitation. He is a member of the Romney Boosters Association. Chief of Police Wayne Swauger, formerly a member of the Cumberland police force, also was on hand. R. L. (Bud) Sumner, manager of the Mountain Fruit Sales, presented Miss Sager a sack of apples.

Miss Sager was accompanied by John Rollins, representing the Chamber of Commerce, and A. T. (Gus) Brust, Jr., managing editor of the Cumberland News.

Hazlehurst Is Named Field Representative In Wage Stabilization

A full time field representative to carry out informational and advisory services on wage stabilization matters in Maryland previously performed by the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Divisions has been appointed in Baltimore.

Col. George E. Strong, chairman of the Richmond regional wage stabilization board announces the appointment of Hugh J. Hazlehurst, formerly of the Labor Department's Wage Hour Division. He will be stationed at 1201 Calvert Building, Fayette and St. Paul Streets, to assist and advise the public preparing petitions on wage adjustments requiring WSB approval.

Demonstration Planned

Equity Suit Filed

An equity suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled Freda Elizabeth Spiker vs. James Olin Spiker.

FRIENDLY FOES—The rival candidates for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District are pictured together shortly before they began a discussion of campaign issues in a meeting last night sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce. Left to right are Mrs. Stella B. Werner, Democratic candidate; J. Kenneth Morgan, Jaycee president, and DeWitt S. Hyde, Republican candidate. Both Mrs. Werner and Hyde are from Montgomery County.

Navy Seeking Construction Tradesmen

Operations Of Seabees Discussed At Seminars

The U. S. Naval Reserve is seeking Construction Tradesmen for some openings in the famous "Seabee Reserve", the Navy's Construction Battalion in the Cumberland area.

Lt. Cmdr. W. E. Woodson Jr., inspector-instructor, for the local Naval Reserve yesterday said "in the light of the need to maintain as part of our Armed Forces a strong reserve force of skilled tradesmen, it would be helpful to have construction mechanics and building contractors build the Cumberland Seabee Reserve up to the authorized peacetime strength."

Would Get Rating

In the Seabee Reserve program qualified construction men in 60 different trades may become part of this construction man's outfit and get a Navy rating equal to their civilian skills. The skilled tradesman may become as active in the Seabee Reserve as he wishes.

As a member of the inactive reserve, he is not required to attend drills. If he so desires he may request enrollment in the volunteer or Organized Seabee Reserve.

As a volunteer reservist he participates on a non-pay basis in one or more meetings a month, Commander Woodson added, engaging in a semi-technical seminar type discussions related to the overseas building operations of the Seabees.

Will Receive Pay

He may request and possibly receive two weeks annual training duty with pay at Great Lakes, Illinois. As a member of an Organized Seabee Company, the construction craftsmen will attend 48 weekly evening drills annually. He will receive one full day's pay of his rating for each two hour drill.

A total of 14 days annual training duty with pay, subsistence and travel allowance will be taken and his uniform furnished without charge. He may request two years active duty building and maintaining the Navy's overseas shore bases. Interested persons may receive more information by visiting the CB Unit meetings on Tuesday evenings at the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center on McKaig's Hill.

Maryland Women Hold Distinction In Journalism

Dinah Nuthead was the first woman printer in the United States way back in 1696. Her first job was in Annapolis.

Another Maryland Woman with the Baltimore Sun made two U. S. firsts for women journalists. Sadie K. Miller in 1900 became the first woman baseball writer in the United States while working on The Sun. Three years later, still with the Sun, she became the first woman press photographer in the country.

Mail Messenger Bids Now Open

Deadline for the bids, according to Dale Broadwater, postmaster at Cresaptown, will be 5 p. m. October 14, 1952. The current annual rate for carrying the mail is $720, Broadwater added. Requirement for the service is that there will be one round trip daily except Sunday from Cresaptown to Cumberland and return. The messenger will leave Cresaptown at 7:30 a. m. carrying all classes of mail. The service will begin on November 15. Further information and forms may be received from Postmaster Broadwater.

CSMC Unit To Meet

Lurana Veteran Unit, Catholic Students Mission Crusade, will meet at 8 p. m. Sunday at the home of Mrs. Georgia DeArchangelis, 240 North Centre Street. All members are urged to attend.

Rival Candidates For Congress Discuss Many Campaign Issues

Rival candidates for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District, Mrs. Stella B. Werner, Democrat, and DeWitt S. Hyde, Republican, last night appeared on the same platform to discuss issues in a "Get-Out-The-Vote" program which featured the monthly meeting of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The two Montgomery Countians, appearing together in Allegany County for the first time, were in sharpest disagreement when it came to discussing the Taft-Hartley Law. Mrs. Werner said she favored repeal of the bill because it had caused much dissension and had not reduced strikes. Hyde, on the other hand, said he might favor several amendments to the law, which he believes in general is a good bill.

Both also expressed favor for eventual reduction of Federal taxes.

Robert L. Ebert served as moderator for the discussion. Each candidate spoke for 10 minutes, reading from a prepared text. Mrs. Werner was first. After that they answered questions during the final 10 minutes of a half-hour program which was carried over two local radio stations. After the radio time elapsed they continued to discuss certain aspects of the campaign with the Jaycees for another 15 minutes.

Mrs. Werner

Mrs. Stella B. Werner attacked her opponent's introduction in the Maryland General Assembly of the so-called "Millionaire's Amendment" to limit Federal income tax in her prepared talk here last night.

She termed the measure "an innocent looking scheme which sounds good but which would transfer to small business men, farmers, wage earners and the lower income groups about 16 billions in taxes now paid by large corporations and wealthy individuals."

Cooperation Aim

With a reminder that Democratic policies are directed toward cooperation with communities suffering from unemployment, she then asked whether Cumberland wanted its problems solved entirely by the Federal government. She said that the Federal government had awarded $9,361,439 in contracts to Cumberland firms.

Stating her own opposition to centralization of more power in Washington, Mrs. Werner said: "For years I have preached the gospel of strong and efficient government at the local level and any local government develops muscle to the degree with which its citizens exercise their responsibility."

She congratulated Cumberland's business men on their efforts to attract new industry, saying "You already are exercising. I have the feeling that groups like yours can help to pull Cumberland up by its own boot straps."

Repeal Urged

During the question period which followed Mrs. Werner stated she believes the Taft-Hartley Act must be repealed because it has caused "dissension" and has not reduced strikes. However, she said she was not in a position to say what should replace it although she has a research committee at work studying the problem.

She also expressed hope that taxes might be reduced but observed that 85 per cent of Federal expenditures now go for security measures. So long as Russia threatens aggressive war slashing of taxes should be deferred, she added. She believes that plugging loopholes in tax bills would provide more revenue and aid in solving the tax problem.

Senator Hyde

State Senator DeWitt S. Hyde charged last night that the Democratic administration in Washington has lost faith in a free economic society and is committed to a program of government control of society and economic institutions.

"Their financial policies have so cheapened the value of our money that any savings program you may have started 10 or 20 years ago is no longer sufficient to take care of your needs. Our neighbor to the north, Canada, is faced with the same economic and military problems that confront us and yet she has been able to maintain the value of her economy."

Renew Faith

"The job of your Congressman and the new government in Washington will be to renew the faith of free men and their ability to solve their own problems; to take the shackles of government control and encroachment on our daily lives off the backs of free men so that they may again go forward to new heights."

Hyde contended that there are four reasons, in addition to the absence of politics in business, that have accounted for our high standard of living in America. He listed them as (1) the system of high wages and short hours; (2) the system of mass production; (3) the system of credit available to all workers in all income brackets and (4) the system of widespread ownership of industries by millions of stockholders which has distributed profits among millions of people.

Tax Reduction

In the question period which followed his brief talk, the GOP candidate expressed belief that taxes can be reduced. He said that Gen. Eisenhower has asserted that armed sevices expenses can be reduced. Reforms in government also will result in saving of millions of dollars. In response to another question, Hyde stated that the Federal government's policy of deficit financing has been the biggest single factor in devaluating the dollar. The dollar will regain its value when the policy is stopped, he added.

Stolen Car, Escapee Are Sought Here

State Police at LaVale last night were asked to be on the lookout for a green 1952 Nash sedan which is believed to be operated by a man who escaped yesterday from the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

The car, which bears Maryland license tags 575-258, was stolen from Hagerstown shortly after R. C. Street, an inmate of the reformatory at nearby Breathedsville, made his escape. It was believed to be heading into West Virginia.

Mary Moxley Day Is Marked By First Baptist Church

Mary Moxley Day was observed at a dinner given last night by First Baptist Church and its Sunday School.

The occasion marked the retirement of Miss Moxley as superintendent of the Primary Department of the Sunday School after 40 years of service.

Miss Moxley will continue, however, to serve as superintendent of the Extension Department of the school.

The program included an invocation by Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor; solo, Robert Moreland; poem, Mrs. Ruth Rowles; talks by Rev. Mr. Linger and Glenmore Rice, Frederick, former superintendent of the school, and a response by Miss Moxley.

Accident Policy For Students Being Offered

Ramey Explains Details Of Plan

The Allegany County Board of Education has obtained a scholastic accident insurance policy from the Pilot Life Insurance Company of Greensboro, N. C.

This new accident policy is for students, teachers, principals, superintendents and office employes, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation in the county school system.

On Way To School

Ramey explained that the policy will cover the insured on the way to school, while in school and on the way home from school. Pupils also will be covered while being transported to classes aboard school buses.

Coverage is provided for pupils while participating in school sponsored activities after school hours such as bands, glee clubs, debating teams and travel to and from such events. Those participating in all athletic activities except interscholastic football also are covered, even after school hours, according to Ramey. However, it does not cover spectators at such events.

This insurance, which costs each person $1 per school year, provides hospital confinement, doctor's services, nursing costs, and ambulance fees up to $1,000 as well as dental services up to $200.

Dismemberment of both hands and both feet will result in a $7,500 payment to the injured person. For loss of one eye and one hand or foot insured will receive $5,000. A similar fee will be paid for loss of both eyes. For loss of one hand or one foot the insured will receive $2,500. Loss of an eye will bring the injured person $1,000. Accidental death provides a $1,000 payment.

Voluntary Basis

Ramey said this new policy is being offered to parents who want to take it out for their children on a purely voluntary basis. Within the next week detailed material will be sent to each school so pupils can take this information home to parents.

In the past the Board of Education has carried athletic insurance for football, basketball, baseball and soccer players but never has offered a general policy as this before.

The Board of Education decided to offer this insurance coverage when it was learned that the company is a responsible one and the cost seems amazingly low, Ramey asserted. It will become effective if at least 100 teachers and pupils in the county take it.

Civil Defense To Participate In Exposition

State and area Civil Defense authorities will cooperate in exhibits planned here October 16 to 18 in conjunction with the Greater Cumberland Industrial Exposition.

Plans for the activities were formulated yesterday afternoon at a meeting in City Hall as state Civil Defense authorities met with William G. Barger, county CD director Arthur B. Gibson, city CD coordinator; Charles G. Smith, chief of the Ground Observer Corps, and Dr. L. E. Daugherty, chairman of medical services.

Tentative plans have been made to exhibit a bomb disposal unit on Baltimore Street during the three-day industrial exhibition.

Gibson said attempts are being made to secure a Civil Defense medical unit for exhibition with the bomb disposal unit.

The Allegany County Civil Defense booth at the exhibition will contain posters, charts and information. Application blanks will also be available for those who wish to cooperate in the Allegany County Civil Defense organization.

County Republicans Will Hear Nixon

Senator Richard M. Nixon, Republican candidate for vice-president, will speak at the Syrian Mosque in Pittsburgh at 9:30 p. m. next Wednesday and a number of local Republicans are planning to go there to hear his address.

A group of Allegany County Republicans are chartering a bus to go to Pittsburgh next Wednesday to hear Nixon, according to W. A. Strother, who is heading the group.

Strother said only 37 persons will be signed for the trip, which will start in mid afternoon so as to arrive in Pittsburgh in time for the speech at 9:30 p. m. Those interested may phone Strother at 1560 during the day or 3577 in the evening.

TWUA Group To Meet

The General Committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will meet next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the union hall. The group will discuss and vote on whether or not to install television facilities in the union hall for members.

Three Men Charged With $700 Burglary

Two Jailed In Weekend Theft At Lumber Plant; Third Sought

State and county authorities yesterday obtained warrants charging three men with a $700 weekend burglary at the Pennsylvania Lumber and Post Company in The Narrows.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and State Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator, said two of the men are being held in jail here, but the other is still at large.

In County Jail is Charles Edward Crawford, 41, of Klosterman's Addition. His brother, Samuel Steven Crawford, 31, of LaVale and Hagerstown, is being held in City Jail. Lilya and Baker declined to identify the third man pending his arrest.

Also being held in connection with the case, but without formal charges, are John Bell, alias Jakie Hoover, about 30, and Elbert Sandy, 16, both of Harrisonburg, Va.

Baker and Trooper First Class Donald R. Wade arrested Charles Crawford, Hoover and the Sandy boy Tuesday morning at Crawford's home after investigation led them to suspect Crawford.

Samuel Crawford was arrested by Baker and Lilya Thursday night in a trailer just east of Hagerstown, where he has been living for some time.

Officers said they found most of the loot yesterday morning in Charles Crawford's home and in a wooded section nearby.

It included three typewriters, a U. S. Postal meter, and a quantity of miscellaneous merchandise. Police said most of it was hidden in several piles of brush.

Baker and Lilya said culprits broke a lock on a garage door at the lumber company sometime between 1 p. m. Saturday and 1 p. m. Sunday. Then they broke a window leading into the office and removed the stolen merchandise.

Authorities said none of the prisoners had signed a formal statement last night, but the Crawfords were being questioned in connection with other weekend thefts.

Specifically, the warrants against the Crawfords and the unnamed third man charge breaking and entering and larceny. Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason issued the warrants yesterday. No date has been set for preliminary hearings.

Eastern Model RR Convention Begins Today

Over 100 Delegates Expected To Attend

Approximately 120 visitors are expected to attend Mid-Eastern Region convention of the National Model Railroad Association which will begin in Cumberland at noon.

Cumberland HO Model Railroad Club will be host to the convention. Registration at the Fort Cumberland Hotel will be from noon to 2 p. m.

Models built by local members will be on display at the hotel and visitors will be asked to exhibit their models.

At 1:30 p. m. buses will leave at short intervals from the Elks Home, South Centre Street, for a tour of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad backshops, roundhouse and Diesel shops.

A banquet has been scheduled for 6:30 o'clock tonight with Rev. Adam Grim, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, offering the prayer before the meal.

An address of welcome will be given by Mayor Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the B&O backshops.

During the banquet, Chester T. Williams, division superintendent of the B&O, will deliver a short address. Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins-Cumberland Division for the Western Maryland Railway, will speak followed by a motion picture on the activities of the Western Maryland. The evening program will include music by the Elks Quartet.

At 9:30 p. m. delegates will return to the Fort Cumberland Hotel ballroom for a business session and a talk by John A. Cupler, president of National Jet Company. Cupler will speak on "Microscopic Drilling."

Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock and short intervals afterward, delegates wil go by buses to inspect the Western Maryland shops.

Distinguished visitors expected to attend the local event are Larry Slagle of the B&O public relations office, Baltimore; Charles A. Brittman, manufacturer of electric motors and model cars used in model layouts; and representatives from other manufacturers.

Arrangements for Cumberland's first national model railroad convention are being made by William R. Ranck, local president, assisted by Richard Hollar, Joseph Ardinger, John Kington, Earl M. Nonnenmann, all of Cumberland, and James Lancaster, Mt. Savage, vice president of the Mid-Region Association.

Luke Workers To Hold Mass Meeting Monday

Members of Luke Local 676, United Paperworkers of America (CIO), will hold a mass meeting Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Welsh Theatre in Westernport.

Plans for the meeting were made yesterday after negotiators in Washington broke off efforts to end the strike which began at three West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plants August 21.

Negotiators from the Luke local, who will return to this area today, will present a full report of negotiations to the membership at Monday's meeting.

About 4,000 workers at Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa., are involved in the contract dispute.

The union has asked a five-cent hourly wage increase. The company has offered four cents. The labor rate at Luke and Covington is approximately $1.34 an hour and approximately $1.35½ at Williamsburg.

The union also seeks union coverage of plant watchmen and division of overtime based on seniority.

Weather

All signs last night pointed to the killing frost which is expected to reach this area today. Yesterday was cool and dry, with official temperatures ranging from 57 to 41. By 9 p. m., the thermometer had dropped to 42 in a cloudless sky, brightened by a full moon. The Constitution Park weather station reported humidity was a pleasant 43.5 per cent at 6 p. m. The frost, which will probably cause considerable damage to vegetation, will turn Western Maryland forests into a blaze of glory.

Heavy Frost Slated To Hit Area Today

Weather Expert Says Cold Winter Ahead

A killing frost is expected to settle over Western Maryland early this morning.

The warnings were issued as a full moon rose in a cold cloudless sky, reminding residents of the area that winter is just around the corner.

Light frost is expected over most of the rest of the state.

Temperatures in Cumberland were low all day yesterday and had dropped to the 42 degree mark by 9 p.m.

Garrett, the westernmost county in the state, experienced a light frost early yesterday.

The brisk autumn air, the bureau said, is associated with a high pressure system covering the eastern half of the nation with only Florida escaping the falling temperatures.

But as the pressure area moves eastward, it added, winds will fall off and give way to southerly breezes beginning this afternoon, when the thermometers should rise somewhat.

The shift in conditions probably will bring showers Sunday, with cooler weather on Monday.

The weather sage who helps compile the "Hagerstown Almanac" was just three days late in forecasting the state's first general frost. The almanac says that on Oct. 7, 8 and 9 it will be "fair and frosty."

He said he based his prediction on the cycle pattern that weather follows, plus the signs of a wet spring, hot summer and hot fall. "So we can expect a wet winter," he said.

Mineral County (W. Va.) voters yesterday gave overwhelming approval to continuation of a special levy to support the county's public school program.

Unofficial returns in a special referendum sdowed 88.9 per cent of the voters who cast ballots were in favor of the levy. The figures, in returns from all but one of the county's 31 precincts, were 2,482 for the levy and 308 against it.

The returns assured continuation for another three years of the special levy which was first authorized in 1949. By law, 60 per cent approval was required for continuing the levy.

County Superintendent of Schools H. L. Idleman said the reinstated levy will mean no increase in the county tax rate, since it has been in effect for three years.

Idleman said some of the funds obtained from the levy in the next three years will be used to keep teachers' salaries at their present rate, or higher.

Other income from the levy will go toward construction of new schools and additions, repairs and improvements to present buildings, and eliminations of fire hazards in some schools.

The fire hazard elimination program was begun with funds obtained from the first levy, but Idleman said some still remain. Lunch rooms also will be expanded to take care of increased enrollments.

Idleman said continuation of the levy was especially important to Mineral County's teachers, whose salaries rank 44th among those in the state's 55 counties.

544 Registrants Sign For Voting As Deadline Nears

Registrars for the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors were swamped all day yesterday as a record crowd of 544 county residents signed up so they can vote November 4.

Democrats for the third successive day took the edge in registration with 279 to 260 for the Republicans and five independents. These last-minute registrants brought the total of eligible voters almost to the 42,000 level.

Today is the absolute deadline for registration. The hours at the board's Court House basement office are 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Nurses Learn New Lifesaving Method

Student nurses at Memorial Hospital yesterday were instructed in a new method of artificial respiration and the use of a resuscitator by city firemen and policemen.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, Assistant Chief Robert Long and Firemen Raymond Leidinger of Central Company demonstrated the use of the back pressure-arm lift method of restoring breathing in unconscious persons.

The new method received approval of the American Red Cross about a year ago.

Police Office Louis D. Downey demonstrated the use of the Police Department's resuscitator, a mechanical device which restores breathing by forcing oxygen into the lungs and withdrawing it at regular intervals.

Local Kiwanians Will Attend Area Meeting

Edwards And Berry Are Named Delegates

The Kiwanis Club of Cumberland will be represented at the 1952 convention of the Capital Kiwanis District October 9-11 at Baltimore, Carl F. Schmutz, president, announced yesterday.

William J. Edwards and Thomas N. Berry will convene with delegates from other clubs throughout the district comprised of Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia.

Albert V. Zimmerman, vice president of Kiwanis International and a banker-lumberman of Alexandria, La., will be featured speaker during the three-day meeting at Emerson Hotel.

Zimmerman was elected to the vice presidency of the community service organization last June at its International convention at Seattle. He is a past governor of the Louisiana-Mississippi-West Tennessee Kiwanis District and served a two-year term as trustee of Kiwanis International.

Claude B. Hellman, Baltimore, a prominent utilities executive, who last year served as president of Kiwanis International, also will speak.

The presiding officer will be J. Sinclair Selden, Jr., Hampton, Va., dairyman and governor of the Capital Kiwanis District.

Delegates from 113 clubs in the district, representing a membership of 7,000 business and professional leaders, will participate in the sessions. Committee conference, a discussion of plans for the coming year, and election of officers will highlight the convention program, Schmutz said.

Miss Sager Gives More Invitations To Exposition

Officials in six towns in the Cumberland trading area yesterday were invited by Miss Lorraine Sager, Miss Western Maryland of 1952, to attend the Greater Cumberland Industrial Exposition here October 16, 17 and 18.

Miss Sager and her escorts first stopped at Oakland, where Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh expressed assurance that he would come to Cumberland for the exposition. He said that a large delegation from Oakland can be expected. While there another invitation was extended to the Garrett County Board of Cimmissioners and was received by J. J. Ashby, clerk to the board.

Next stop on the visit to Cumberland's "good neighbors" was at Thomas, W. Va. Mayor Carmen DiBacco accepted the invitation and then presented Miss Sager with a box of candy on behalf of the Mayor and Council. Others present for the ceremony were H. A. Pase, city clerk; Thomas Coleman and C. R. (Buckshot) Thayer, councilmen.

Another Tucker county town, Davis, was next on the "good neighbor" tour. There, Mayor H. A. Meyer, who once operated a bus line from Davis to Cumberland, accepted the invitation and showed the Cumberlanders Blackwater Falls near Davis. He invited them to lunch but the heavy schedule prevented their acceptance.

Next stop was Petersburg, W. Va., where Mayor D. H. Trenton received the invitation. At Moorefield, W. Va., next on the tour, Mayor P. W. Clarke was absent and the invitation was accepted by Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, town recorder.

Final visit of the day was at Romney, W. Va., where Acting Mayor G. Edward Nogle, a member of the Town Council, got the invitation. He is a member of the Romney Boosters Association. Chief of Police Wayne Swauger, formerly a member of the Cumberland police force, also was on hand. R. L. (Bud) Sumner, manager of the Mountain Fruit Sales, presented Miss Sager a sack of apples.

Miss Sager was accompanied by John Rollins, representing the Chamber of Commerce, and A. T. (Gus) Brust, Jr., managing editor of the Cumberland News.

Hazlehurst Is Named Field Representative In Wage Stabilization

A full time field representative to carry out informational and advisory services on wage stabilization matters in Maryland previously performed by the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Divisions has been appointed in Baltimore.

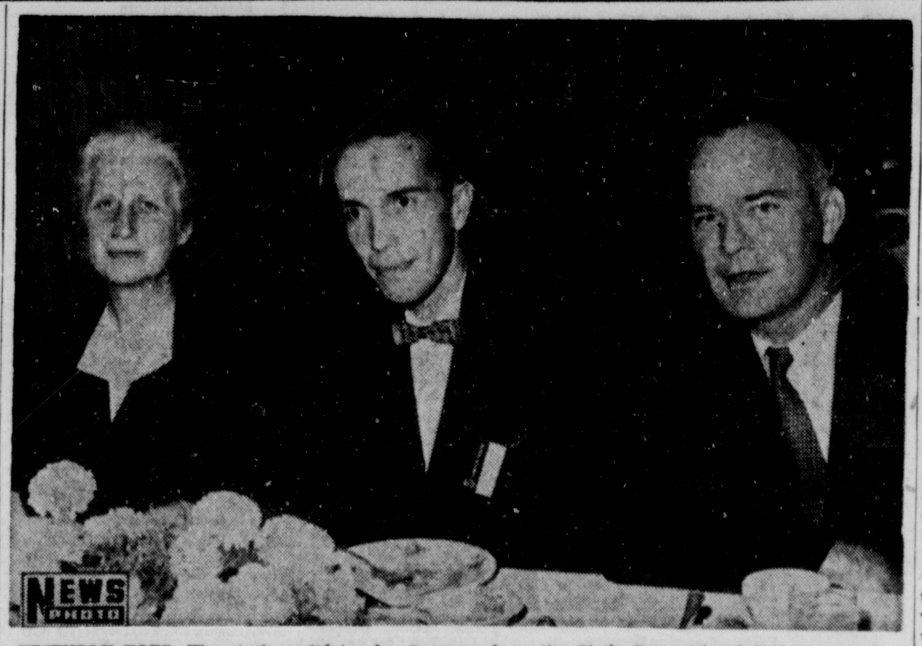

Col. George E. Strong, chairman of the Richmond regional wage stabilization board announces the appointment of Hugh J. Hazlehurst, formerly of the Labor Department's Wage Hour Division. He will be stationed at 1201 Calvert Building, Fayette and St. Paul Streets, to assist and advise the public preparing petitions on wage adjustments requiring WSB approval.

Demonstration Planned

Equity Suit Filed

An equity suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled Freda Elizabeth Spiker vs. James Olin Spiker.

FRIENDLY FOES—The rival candidates for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District are pictured together shortly before they began a discussion of campaign issues in a meeting last night sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce. Left to right are Mrs. Stella B. Werner, Democratic candidate; J. Kenneth Morgan, Jaycee president, and DeWitt S. Hyde, Republican candidate. Both Mrs. Werner and Hyde are from Montgomery County.

Navy Seeking Construction Tradesmen

Operations Of Seabees Discussed At Seminars

The U. S. Naval Reserve is seeking Construction Tradesmen for some openings in the famous "Seabee Reserve", the Navy's Construction Battalion in the Cumberland area.

Lt. Cmdr. W. E. Woodson Jr., inspector-instructor, for the local Naval Reserve yesterday said "in the light of the need to maintain as part of our Armed Forces a strong reserve force of skilled tradesmen, it would be helpful to have construction mechanics and building contractors build the Cumberland Seabee Reserve up to the authorized peacetime strength."

Would Get Rating

In the Seabee Reserve program qualified construction men in 60 different trades may become part of this construction man's outfit and get a Navy rating equal to their civilian skills. The skilled tradesman may become as active in the Seabee Reserve as he wishes.

As a member of the inactive reserve, he is not required to attend drills. If he so desires he may request enrollment in the volunteer or Organized Seabee Reserve.

As a volunteer reservist he participates on a non-pay basis in one or more meetings a month, Commander Woodson added, engaging in a semi-technical seminar type discussions related to the overseas building operations of the Seabees.

Will Receive Pay

He may request and possibly receive two weeks annual training duty with pay at Great Lakes, Illinois. As a member of an Organized Seabee Company, the construction craftsmen will attend 48 weekly evening drills annually. He will receive one full day's pay of his rating for each two hour drill.

A total of 14 days annual training duty with pay, subsistence and travel allowance will be taken and his uniform furnished without charge. He may request two years active duty building and maintaining the Navy's overseas shore bases. Interested persons may receive more information by visiting the CB Unit meetings on Tuesday evenings at the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center on McKaig's Hill.

Maryland Women Hold Distinction In Journalism

Because this is National Newspaper Week a collection of accomplishments by women journalists has been compiled.

Two of these outstanding women made their claim to fame in Maryland.

Dinah Nuthead was the first woman printer in the United States way back in 1696. Her first job was in Annapolis.

Another Maryland Woman with the Baltimore Sun made two U. S. firsts for women journalists. Sadie K. Miller in 1900 became the first woman baseball writer in the United States while working on The Sun. Three years later, still with the Sun, she became the first woman press photographer in the country.

Mail Messenger Bids Now Open

Deadline for the bids, according to Dale Broadwater, postmaster at Cresaptown, will be 5 p. m. October 14, 1952. The current annual rate for carrying the mail is $720, Broadwater added. Requirement for the service is that there will be one round trip daily except Sunday from Cresaptown to Cumberland and return. The messenger will leave Cresaptown at 7:30 a. m. carrying all classes of mail. The service will begin on November 15. Further information and forms may be received from Postmaster Broadwater.

CSMC Unit To Meet

Lurana Veteran Unit, Catholic Students Mission Crusade, will meet at 8 p. m. Sunday at the home of Mrs. Georgia DeArchangelis, 240 North Centre Street. All members are urged to attend.

Rival Candidates For Congress Discuss Many Campaign Issues

Rival candidates for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District, Mrs. Stella B. Werner, Democrat, and DeWitt S. Hyde, Republican, last night appeared on the same platform to discuss issues in a "Get-Out-The-Vote" program which featured the monthly meeting of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The two Montgomery Countians, appearing together in Allegany County for the first time, were in sharpest disagreement when it came to discussing the Taft-Hartley Law. Mrs. Werner said she favored repeal of the bill because it had caused much dissension and had not reduced strikes. Hyde, on the other hand, said he might favor several amendments to the law, which he believes in general is a good bill.

Both also expressed favor for eventual reduction of Federal taxes.

Robert L. Ebert served as moderator for the discussion. Each candidate spoke for 10 minutes, reading from a prepared text. Mrs. Werner was first. After that they answered questions during the final 10 minutes of a half-hour program which was carried over two local radio stations. After the radio time elapsed they continued to discuss certain aspects of the campaign with the Jaycees for another 15 minutes.

Mrs. Werner

Mrs. Stella B. Werner attacked her opponent's introduction in the Maryland General Assembly of the so-called "Millionaire's Amendment" to limit Federal income tax in her prepared talk here last night.

She termed the measure "an innocent looking scheme which sounds good but which would transfer to small business men, farmers, wage earners and the lower income groups about 16 billions in taxes now paid by large corporations and wealthy individuals."

Cooperation Aim

With a reminder that Democratic policies are directed toward cooperation with communities suffering from unemployment, she then asked whether Cumberland wanted its problems solved entirely by the Federal government. She said that the Federal government had awarded $9,361,439 in contracts to Cumberland firms.

Stating her own opposition to centralization of more power in Washington, Mrs. Werner said: "For years I have preached the gospel of strong and efficient government at the local level and any local government develops muscle to the degree with which its citizens exercise their responsibility."

She congratulated Cumberland's business men on their efforts to attract new industry, saying "You already are exercising. I have the feeling that groups like yours can help to pull Cumberland up by its own boot straps."

Repeal Urged

During the question period which followed Mrs. Werner stated she believes the Taft-Hartley Act must be repealed because it has caused "dissension" and has not reduced strikes. However, she said she was not in a position to say what should replace it although she has a research committee at work studying the problem.

She also expressed hope that taxes might be reduced but observed that 85 per cent of Federal expenditures now go for security measures. So long as Russia threatens aggressive war slashing of taxes should be deferred, she added. She believes that plugging loopholes in tax bills would provide more revenue and aid in solving the tax problem.

Senator Hyde

State Senator DeWitt S. Hyde charged last night that the Democratic administration in Washington has lost faith in a free economic society and is committed to a program of government control of society and economic institutions.

"Their financial policies have so cheapened the value of our money that any savings program you may have started 10 or 20 years ago is no longer sufficient to take care of your needs. Our neighbor to the north, Canada, is faced with the same economic and military problems that confront us and yet she has been able to maintain the value of her economy."

Renew Faith

"The job of your Congressman and the new government in Washington will be to renew the faith of free men and their ability to solve their own problems; to take the shackles of government control and encroachment on our daily lives off the backs of free men so that they may again go forward to new heights."

Hyde contended that there are four reasons, in addition to the absence of politics in business, that have accounted for our high standard of living in America. He listed them as (1) the system of high wages and short hours; (2) the system of mass production; (3) the system of credit available to all workers in all income brackets and (4) the system of widespread ownership of industries by millions of stockholders which has distributed profits among millions of people.

Tax Reduction

In the question period which followed his brief talk, the GOP candidate expressed belief that taxes can be reduced. He said that Gen. Eisenhower has asserted that armed sevices expenses can be reduced. Reforms in government also will result in saving of millions of dollars. In response to another question, Hyde stated that the Federal government's policy of deficit financing has been the biggest single factor in devaluating the dollar. The dollar will regain its value when the policy is stopped, he added.

Stolen Car, Escapee Are Sought Here

State Police at LaVale last night were asked to be on the lookout for a green 1952 Nash sedan which is believed to be operated by a man who escaped yesterday from the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

The car, which bears Maryland license tags 575-258, was stolen from Hagerstown shortly after R. C. Street, an inmate of the reformatory at nearby Breathedsville, made his escape. It was believed to be heading into West Virginia.

Mary Moxley Day Is Marked By First Baptist Church

Mary Moxley Day was observed at a dinner given last night by First Baptist Church and its Sunday School.

The occasion marked the retirement of Miss Moxley as superintendent of the Primary Department of the Sunday School after 40 years of service.

Miss Moxley will continue, however, to serve as superintendent of the Extension Department of the school.

She was presented cornucopia containing, a corsage of orchids and a purse as a testimony of her service.

The program included an invocation by Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor; solo, Robert Moreland; poem, Mrs. Ruth Rowles; talks by Rev. Mr. Linger and Glenmore Rice, Frederick, former superintendent of the school, and a response by Miss Moxley.

Accident Policy For Students Being Offered

Ramey Explains Details Of Plan

The Allegany County Board of Education has obtained a scholastic accident insurance policy from the Pilot Life Insurance Company of Greensboro, N. C.

This new accident policy is for students, teachers, principals, superintendents and office employes, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation in the county school system.

On Way To School

Ramey explained that the policy will cover the insured on the way to school, while in school and on the way home from school. Pupils also will be covered while being transported to classes aboard school buses.

Coverage is provided for pupils while participating in school sponsored activities after school hours such as bands, glee clubs, debating teams and travel to and from such events. Those participating in all athletic activities except interscholastic football also are covered, even after school hours, according to Ramey. However, it does not cover spectators at such events.

This insurance, which costs each person $1 per school year, provides hospital confinement, doctor's services, nursing costs, and ambulance fees up to $1,000 as well as dental services up to $200.

Dismemberment of both hands and both feet will result in a $7,500 payment to the injured person. For loss of one eye and one hand or foot insured will receive $5,000. A similar fee will be paid for loss of both eyes. For loss of one hand or one foot the insured will receive $2,500. Loss of an eye will bring the injured person $1,000. Accidental death provides a $1,000 payment.

Voluntary Basis

Ramey said this new policy is being offered to parents who want to take it out for their children on a purely voluntary basis. Within the next week detailed material will be sent to each school so pupils can take this information home to parents.

In the past the Board of Education has carried athletic insurance for football, basketball, baseball and soccer players but never has offered a general policy as this before.

The Board of Education decided to offer this insurance coverage when it was learned that the company is a responsible one and the cost seems amazingly low, Ramey asserted. It will become effective if at least 100 teachers and pupils in the county take it.

Civil Defense To Participate In Exposition

State and area Civil Defense authorities will cooperate in exhibits planned here October 16 to 18 in conjunction with the Greater Cumberland Industrial Exposition.

Plans for the activities were formulated yesterday afternoon at a meeting in City Hall as state Civil Defense authorities met with William G. Barger, county CD director Arthur B. Gibson, city CD coordinator; Charles G. Smith, chief of the Ground Observer Corps, and Dr. L. E. Daugherty, chairman of medical services.

Tentative plans have been made to exhibit a bomb disposal unit on Baltimore Street during the three-day industrial exhibition.

Gibson said attempts are being made to secure a Civil Defense medical unit for exhibition with the bomb disposal unit.

The Allegany County Civil Defense booth at the exhibition will contain posters, charts and information. Application blanks will also be available for those who wish to cooperate in the Allegany County Civil Defense organization.

County Republicans Will Hear Nixon

Senator Richard M. Nixon, Republican candidate for vice-president, will speak at the Syrian Mosque in Pittsburgh at 9:30 p. m. next Wednesday and a number of local Republicans are planning to go there to hear his address.

A group of Allegany County Republicans are chartering a bus to go to Pittsburgh next Wednesday to hear Nixon, according to W. A. Strother, who is heading the group.

Strother said only 37 persons will be signed for the trip, which will start in mid afternoon so as to arrive in Pittsburgh in time for the speech at 9:30 p. m. Those interested may phone Strother at 1560 during the day or 3577 in the evening.

TWUA Group To Meet

The General Committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will meet next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the union hall. The group will discuss and vote on whether or not to install television facilities in the union hall for members.

Millenson Is Reporter

Jock Millenson, a sophomore at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, is a reporter for the Review, the student newspaper. Millenson, who transferred to Oberlin from Duke University, is the son of Mrs. A. J. Feigus, 110 Luteman Road.
